Margin for Red China Shy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Red China edged closer to a seat in the United Nations today when the General Assembly gave it a majority vote for the first time.

It failed only because the 127nation assembly had approved earlier a U.S.-backed resolution declaring China representation to be an "important question," requiring a two-thirds majority.

Fifty-one nations voted in favor of seating the Peking government, with 49 against and 25 abstaining. This amounted to 51 per cent of those present and voting, or 15 percentage points short of approval.

The closest previous vote was in 1965, when Peking gained a 47-47 tie. Last year the vote was 48 in favor and 56 against—a 46 per cent showing.

Peking's showing this year came mainly because it gained five new supporters while nine countries switched from opposition to abstention.

The new supporters were Austria, Canada, Chile, Equatorial Guinea and Italy. Two previous Peking supporters—Cambodia and Maritius—switched from "yes" to "no," but this was not enough to offset the wholesale switching from anti-Peking to abstention.

The key to the assembly's vote was the continued coupling of Peking's bid with a demand for the expulsion of the Chinese Nationalists. During the debate a substantial majority favored Red China's seating, but not at the cost of expelling the Nationalist government.

The United States was among those shifting emphasis to the expulsion issue rather than the attacks on Red China and its qualifications for a seat in the world organization.

The vote on the "important question" resolution was 66 in favor, 52 against and 7 abstaining. Some delegates expressed doubts about supporting this idea in the future if Peking should attain a majority.

Three abstainers in 1969, Canada, Italy and Equatorial Guinea, have established diplomatic relations with Peking this year. Chile, which also abstained last year, switched to support of Peking's candidacy after the election of a Marxist president recently.

On the other hand, the Chinese Communists lost Cambodia's support because they gave refuge to the ousted Cambodian chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, and allowed him to set up a government in exile in Peking. And Mauritius, which voted for Peking in 1969, announced this week that it would vote no this year. Ambassador Radha Krishna Ramphul told the assembly that his government still favored Peking but not to the extent of ousting the Chinese Nationalists, which the resolution introduced by Peking's backers called for.

Nationalist Chinese Ambassador Liu Chieh closed the debate Thursday. He challenged the Communists to accept Saudi Arabia's proposal for a plebiscite on the mainland and said his government would abide by the results of such a vote. Liu said, however, that he thought the Reds would reject any such idea.

Marshal Choice at Morehouse Clouded

MOREHOUSE — A man approved for the city marshal's job Thursday night may never serve because he is on federal parole stemming from a July 12, 1968, conviction under the Dyer act involving interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle.

Mayor Charley Neal, when advised that James Cooper Green Jr., 24, of 730 Matthews Street, Sikeston, is on parole, said this morning, "I was going to get around to it (making a check on Green's record) after a while. I wouldn't be in favor of someone who had been in trouble."

James C. Green

Because of this, Lanzeni said, Green cannot possess firearms and doubs "if he would qualify" to serve as city marshal.

Hal Hunter Jr., prosecuting attorney of New Madrid County, said he believes city officials have to be qualified voters, and Green would not be a qualified voter if convicted of a felony, Hunter said.

"I think they (Morehouse city officials) need to correct that," Hunter said. "Anybody who has been convicted of a felony has lost his right to vote."

Mayor Neal said he gives the responsibility of investigating backgrounds of the person hired as city marshal to the aldermen. Neal added, however, "We are going to ask around about him.'.

"I will have to talk to an attorney,'. Mayor Neal said.

Green was approved during a meeting of the Town board Thursday night. The board deliberated two hours and considered more than six candidates for the position before approving Green.

The board was deadlocked with Alderman Quitman Dill made the motion that Green be hired. Green was present at the meeting. It took more than 30 minutes for Dill to get his motion seconded. This was done by Alderman Woodrow Bolen, who said he was reluctant to second the motion because he was afraid the four aldermen would split and he didn't want Mayor Neal to "be able to vote and break a tie."

Green was approved with votes from Bolen, Dill and John Eaker, with Edward Eaker voting no because he wanted to hire a resident of the city.

Alderman Bolen said this morning, after being advised of the situation, "I don't think we need him (green) if it is like that." Bolen said he would favor having another meeting.

"We can't go like that," Bolen said, meaning the situation needs changing.

Alderman Dill agreed with Bolen ',that something will have to be done."

In last night's meeting the board and Mayor Neal agreed they wanted a man who still serve full- time.

"We've had enough of part time, half time, and no time out-of- town boys," Mayor Neal said. "The people are due a full-time man."

Green was hired because of experience, qualifications, and most of all, he will be a full-time marshal, Neal commented prior to learning Green was on federal parole.

Later Neal said he had checked with probation officer Lanzeni and it is definite that Green can't serve as city marshal. Mayor Neal has called another board meeting for Monday night.

"I left it up to the board of alderman. They just didn't talk to him close enough," Mayor Neal said.

Mayor Neal said deputies Harold Tarrants and Buddy McCain will serve until Monday to "control the town."

The city marshal's position has been open since Monday. This was one day after Raymond Lawrence, who resigned as Marshal Monday, was arrested on a felony charge in Scott County. He is charged with stealing $600 from the trunk of a car belonging to a man he had arrested in Sikeston Saturday night.

Green had not been sworn in as marshal. His duties were to begin when he moved to Morehouse.

Hard-Fought Farm Bill in Nixon Hands

WASHINGTON (AP) president Nixon has on his desk today a favored $3.5 billion farm bill which sets for the first time a limit on the subsidies paid major growers for not producing.

The measure passed the Senate 48 to 35 Thursday after a lengthy and stormy fight in which opponents said the bill would cost farmers billions of dollars in income.

The bill, which lays down federal policy on farm subsidy and farm support programs over the next three years, won praise from Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin.

"It will give farmers an opportunity to take greater advantage of shifts in market demands from commodity to commodity by moving away from fixed crop acreages toward greater leeway in cropplantings," he said.

The bill limits subsidies to $55,000 on each crop of wheat, cotton, corn and other feed grain lands held from production. Senate opponents sought a $20,000 limit. There was no limit under past laws.

During the House- Senate conference meetings House members refused to budge from administration-backed provisions of the measure. Three senators walked out of the session and refused to sign the conference report, among them Sen. Stuart Symington.

The Missouri Democrat Thursday ridiculed the conference-reported bill as "both unfair and inadequate and . . . a bill which is certain to lower farm income."

"Farmers especially resent these incredible efforts by Secretary of Agricutlure Hardin to junk the parity concept in connection with price supports and loans," he said.

Symington was disturbed over House conference members' refusal to go along with Senate language setting price supports for corn at $1.35 per bushel or 75 per cent of parity-whichever was higher.

Instead, the conference dropped the figure to 70 per cent for two years and gave the secretary the authority to lower it to 68 per cent in 1973.

Southern opponents, including Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., predicted disaster for cotten farmers. He said the bill would encourage overproduction and an eventual order from the Agriculture Department to drastically reduce the amount of acreage in production.

The old law allows cotton farmers to produce on 16.3 million acres of land. The new bill reduces that figure to 11.3 million acres.

Other provisions of the bill include extension of both the Food for Peace and wool support programs.

Charles Manson Says 'I've Killed No One'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles Manson in a surprise move took the stand at the Sharon Tate murder trial today and said: "I've killed no one and I've ordered no one to be killed.'

Then he added: "I have one law that I live by. It's that I don't snitch."

In an emotional but low-keyed delivery, the central figure in the complex case said over the objection of his attorney: "You people put importance on your lives. My life has never been important to anyone...If you put me in the penitentiary, hat means nothing... I like it there because I like myself."

Manson's sudden appearance on the stand came after a dispute in which his three women co-defendants said they intended to confess.

The four are charged with murdering Miss Tate and six others.

The women insisted Thursday on testifying against the advice of their attorneys and at today's session the judge asked them to take the stand and tell their stories in narrative form in the absence of the jury, so any inadmissible comments would not reach the jury's ears.

At that defendant Susan Atkins, 22, arose and said: "It's for the jury's ears. They're the ones that hold my life in their hands." The other two indicated they felt the same way.

In the midst of their arguments Manson, chieftan of a hippie style clan, arose and asked to testify. His attorney objected loudly.

Attorney Paul Fitzgerald, leader of the four-lawyer team, told newsmen before the chambers session there were five possibilities:

1. The judge could jail the attorneys for contempt for their refusal.

2. He could relieve present attorneys and appoint new ones willing to ask questions.

3. He could tell the women to simply give narrative statements, then he cross-examined.

4. The judge could ask questions prepared by the women.

5. He could allow the defendants to act as their own attorneys, a move deemed unlikely.

Fitzgerald said all possibilities hold legal complications that could lead later to motions for reverisble error. He said the judge had indicated he would take as long as necessary to resolve the problem.

The women all are members of Charles Manson's hippie-style family.

Fitzgerald called the surprise decision to rest the case Thursday a drastic effort to thwart the women's determination to speak out "the truth."

The Los Angeles Times reported today that the three women were prepared to confess from the witness stand. The newspaper said attorneys for the women told the judge in a secret session of their clients' wish to confess.

Manson, who had expressed no desire to take the stand himself, sat silent through Thursday's dramatic events which began with all four attorneys resting their case. The women then arose and insisted on being heard, and the judge ruled they had a constitutional right to testify.

Miss Atkins, modishly attired in a royal blue pants suit, took the stand briefly but was balked when her attorney refused to question her about the case. The two other women's lawyers said they would refuse also.

"We can go to jail for contempt of court or we can be relieved as attorneys in this case," said Fitzgerald after a conference in the judge's chambers. "He's considering both."

DEXTER Petitions signed by 426 citizens of Dexter, who are customers of the Missouri Utilities Company, were filed yesterday with the Missouri Public Service Commission opposing increases in electric and gas rates sought by the Missouri Utilities Company on an application pending before the state Public Service Commission.

Employes of the GM parts division facility at Hazelwood in St. Louis County elected to remain on strike, the spokesman said.

Crismon Indicted On Nine Counts

ST. LOUIS (AP)—An indictment alleging nine counts of bank fraud was returned by a federal grand jury Thursday against James B. Crismon, former president of the defunct First State bank of Bonne Terre.

The indictment alleged violations involving bad checks and misuse and misappropriation of more than $600,000 in bank funds.

Crismon already had been charged by federal and state officials with embezzlement and fraud in the bank's operations. The indictment supersedes the earlier federal charges involving two counts of allegedly fraudulent loans.

Crismon resigned as president of the Bonne Terre bank shortly before it was closed by State Finance Commissioner C. W. Culley Aug. 24 because of questionable loans.

The bank reopened a short time later under a new name and new management.

Meanwhile, other grand juries in Farmington, Jefferson City and Clayton launched inquiries into the bank's operations, an alleged attempt to bribe Culley to refrain from closing the bank and of a cash payment to State Treasurer William Robinson in exchange for deposit of state fundsin the Bonne Terre bank.

Robinson acknowledged receiving $2,500 from Crismon but said the money was a campaign contribution. That aspect of the case is being looked into by a Cole County Grand Jury in Jefferson City.

A St. Louis County Grand Jury sitting at Clayton is investigating the reported bribe attempt as well as dealings involving Robinson.

Two of the nine counts of the indictment involve false loans totaling $125,000 made to persons who did not receive the money. Crismon allegedly converted the money to his own use.

Green Light for Air Fare Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board approved today air fare adjustments expected to increase airline annual revenues by at least $80 million.

The board said that as the airlines make the proper filings, they will be permitted to:

1. Raise first class fares from 25 per cent above the coach level to 30 per cent above coach. This increase alone should add $40 million to airline revenues over a one-year period, industry sources said.

2. Eliminate Discover America discount fares on trips of less than 1,500 miles.

3. Reduce the Discover America round trip excursion fare discount of 20 per cent, to one of 15 per cent, during the summer-time peak travel period.

4. Eliminate the family fare to Florida during the winter season of heavy tourist traffic to and from that resort area.

5. Increase night coach fares from 75 per cent of the day coach fare to 80 per cent.

6. Increase youth standby fares, now 50 per cent of the coach fare on some airlines, to 66 2-3 per cent, a level adopted many months ago by some airlines.

The Board approved proposals already before it, to raise first class fares 5 per cent, to go into effect on Braniff Airways immediately, Eastern Air Lines next Monday, National Airlines Dec. 7 and Northeast Airlines Dec. 12.

The blackout from Dec. 1 through April 30 on family fares to Florida will go into effect on Eastern, National, Northeast and United Air Lines.

The 5 per cent slash in the Discover America fare discount will be effective on American from June 15 through Sept. 15.

Trade Bill Faces Trouble in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A quota-setting trade bill that would throw up Congress's most formidable new barriers against foreign goods since 1930 has passed the House, but Senate approval is in doubt.

Opponents said the controversial bill to limit textile and shoe imports would touch off a world trade war. Backers said it would protect threatened U.S. industries and jobs.

It passed the House 215 to 165 Thursday night with trade lobbyists filling the galleries.

Nixon administration efforts to cut the bill back to the President's request for textile quotas only—plus a tax incentive to boost U.S. exports—didn't even come to a vote.

But administration supporters said Nixon will make no decision on whether to veto the bill until he sees how it comes out of Congress.

Senate opponents led by Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., have hinted they will filibuster if necessary to prevent a similar trade package from even being considered there.

Opponents concentrated their attack, during two days of debate, on predictions the quotas would bring trade-war retaliation from the countries affected—particularly Japan and the European Common Market—and would drive up U.S. prices by protecting American goods from cheaper foreign competitors.

"The Japanese would rather have the textile market they can get in the United States than retaliate," he said.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

America lives by its transportation system.

Food must move from the farms to the cities. Coal must move from the mines to the power companies and steel mills. Steel must move from the mills to factories. And finished products must move from factories to consumers.

Without the smooth functioning of its transportation system, American commerce would soon cease. Millions would be thrown out of work.

America needs all of its transportation.

But there is one mode it depends on above all others– the railroads.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe underscored this recently when he said: "No other modes of transportation singly or in combination could conceivably fulfill the role of the railroads."

It has been estimated that, even with 30 days' preparation in the event of a nationwide rail shutdown, the other modes would be able to absorb only a small fraction of the railroads' freight business.

The railroads move a fleet of 1.8 million freight cars with a carrying capacity of 118 million tons.

In 1969,, they hauled 780 billion ton- miles of freight -- or nearly 4,000 ton- miles for every man, woman and child in the country.

Thus, the railroads were responsible for transporting about 41 percent of the country's intercity tonnage-- nearly twice as much as any other mode.

As important-- and revealing -- as these statistics are, they don't show the country's true dependence on railroads.

For ordinary necessities like water, electricity, paper, canned and frozen foods and bread, we depend on the railroads.

Its no exaggeration to say that your next glass of pure water may be brought to you by train -- for it's the railroads that move most of the chemicals used in water purification.

In a sense, electricity, too, is brought by the railroads. They move hundreds of millions of tons of coal every year -- coal that's used to provide electric lights to 80 million Americans.

As for food -- that, too, is probably brought to you by train. Almost all the canned and frozen foods moves by railroad, and so does much of the wheat needed for bread. Almost half of our meat and dairy products comes by train as well.

Besides these necessities, railroads deliver something else to America -- jobs, and a lot of them.

Not alone for the nearly 600,000 people who work on the railroads.

But also for thousands of employes in allied industries.

And the jobs of millions of others depend on efficient distribution of their products by railroads.

These include miners-- more of whose coal, metallic ores and other minerals move by rail than by any other mode.

And cotton producers -- who depend on trains to move over 73 percent of their crop to textile mills.

As recently found by America's Sound Transportation Review Organization (ASTRO), railroads move:

.71 percent of household appliances.
.76 percent of automobiles and automobile parts.
.78 percent of lumber and wood.
.40 percent of furniture.
.63 percent of chemicals.
.and 68 per cent of primary metal products.

Railroads are also an essential component of the national defense system, moving nearly 40 percent of the Defense Department's freight - one third of which it's impossible to transport any other way.

America's railroads. Who needs them? You do. We all do.

A KILLING HANDICAP

Welfare, as everyone knows, is bankrupting communities all over the nation -- and no one seems to be able to do anything about it. Some figures from a state welfare office in Massachusetts explain, at least in part, why the problem of welfare is getting out of control. According to the figures, a family of four on the Aid for Dependent Children program in Massachusetts enjoys a standard of living $1,275 a year higher than a family of the same size supported by an average wage earner. Including fringe benefits -- free medical and dental care, tax relief, subsidized rent and mortgage payments, special insurace breaks– the family of four on welfare receives the equivalent of $7,671.55 a year. The average wage earner's family gets $6,396.00 a year. These figures from Massachusetts are very likely similar to figures for other states. No nation can live indefinitely under this kind of handicap and still maintain the productivity of its people -- or the initiative of the individual.

Yet, in all fairness to them, we can say in a large degree that today's teen-agers are what Congress made them. The old adage says that 'the devil makes work for idle hands,' and if anything created idle hands, passage into law of the inflationary minimum wage law has done more than its share, especially in the teen- age labor market. Now, I am not saying that a person should not be paid a living wage. I am saying that many, many teen-agers want jobs and would work for much less than a minimum wage, just to keep busy and make some spending money. But the minimum wage law... In effect... has closed job opportunities for most teen-agers."

The Food & Liquor Digest commented that drive in grocery buying may revolutionize food retailing in the future, according to a new Bank of America report. The report gives this description of the operation of a combination convenience store- gas station: "The customer pulls into one of the service islands at the gas station where a push- button panel is located near the pumps. By pushing product- labeled buttons from the driver's seat of her car, the shopper selects from over 100 convenience items pushing the 'total' button last. Her purchases are added up automatically, the order is bagged and delivered to her car by an attendant, and the entire purchase may be charged to a credit card." Such receptivity to innovation has keyed the success of the convenience store, the fastest growing segment of the food retailing industry.

LAFAYETTE, ALA., SUN: "Those who have encouraged hatred, militancy and abuse of members of the establishment must share the responsibility for the rising number of killings of policemen, in various parts of the country. In several cases... particularly ugly killings have struck down policemen, sometimes more than one in the same shootout. In New York City... two policemen were brutally killed in the same week -- one shot through the heart and the other stabbed as he sat in his patrol car...Unless the nation considers its peace- keeping officers friends, to be helped and supported, there is little chance America will be a peaceful, stable society of order and progress."

AMERICAN PIECRUSTS. LSD AFTERMATH. DOES SCLC PAY?

War is hell if you are South Vietnamese. You fight the Viet Cong, the North Vietnamese, the Americans, the Russians, the Red Chinese, Averell and Cyrus. But it is the Americans you worry about the most because they act and talk like Bolsheviks; i.e., agreements are like piecrusts, made to be broken. That bombing cessation agreement said if the Communists so much as infiltrated the DMZ or shelled a city, then the Americans would bomb the North back to its ancestry. It is a puzzlement. The Reds did go into the DMZ. They shelled cities. They even massacred women and children in a village. Yet, no bombs fall on the North. And now, the Americans talk of another holiday truce- on top of the bombing halt for which no logical basis of agreement exists. The best you can do is send Vice- President Ky to Paris and hope he botches the talks and gives Ave and Cyrus massive cases of indigestion complicated by migraine headaches. Then the remedy would be obvious: bomb the North, Haiphong and all, and win the war.

Pregnant users of LSD in the nation's capital were scared stiff at the news: geneticist Dr. Cecil B. Jacobson had found a high incidence of brain and skull defects in the fetuses of LSD users. Of 14 cases of therapeutic abortions, four showed the defect. The rate for the defect was high — 28.5 per cent, compared to .43 per cent in normal and stillbirths. Dr. Jacobson, of George Washington University, said the evidence strongly implicates LSD as an abnormality- producing agent in humans. University of California geneticist Joshua Lederberg said that evidence that LSD is such an agent "is inconclusive."

NEW YORK (AP) — There is no finer fun than playing the game of "remember 'when." The more we can match each other's memories the more warmly akin we feel. You can play the game pretty well yourself if you can look and remember when—

Every girl dreamed of meeting the man she'd marry by having him save her from being mashed by a runaway horse.

The school of hard knocks had more pupils than any other school in town.

If you didn't swim, you sank.

The only really big problem youth had to face was acne.

The rich had all the ice they wanted all the year round, but the poor got most of theirs in winter.

In the newspaper cartoons an Englishman was a fellow who wore a top hat, a monocle and spats, and went around murmuring "Bah Jove."

It made you feel mysterious to eat in a Chinese restaurant, and it was almost a ritual requirement to say to somebody afterward, "you know, at the time it filled me up completely but an hour later I felt I hadn't eaten a thing."

A guy in the 1920's who wore sideburns and flapping pants was called a "cake eater." The girl he escorted wore rolled hose, short skirts and a studied look of vacuity, and was known as a "flapper."

Only the local filling statior had the courage to give away free calendars with a nude girl on the cover.

After you found a steady job, you were expected to stay with it for the rest of your life. The general theory was that you should begin by sweeping out the place and end up running it.

Young ladies wore bigbrimmed hats in summer to protect their pale complexion from the sun's ravages. A tanned face made a firl feel rather common.

Anybody who dwelt outside hearing distance of a street car was known to vaudeville wits as a "hayseed," a "rube," or a "local yokel."

You could buy a hand-wound phonograph for what it costs you today to have a color television set repaired.

Most Americans lived by the courageous, give it another try philosophy once expressed by the late Mike Todd: "I've often been broke, but I've never been poor."

Those were the days—remember?

Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, today warned of extreme traffic dangers on every highway, county road and country lane during the deer hunting season, from November 14 through November 23.

"The State Conservation Commission advises that an estimated 160,000 tags will be sold to deer hunters this year," Hockaday noted. "These sportsmen will be traveling by motor vehicles to and from the hunting areas. I urge them to use extreme caution not only while on the highways , but as they hunt for deer."

The Patrol Superintendent called attention to the tragic traffic toll experienced last year during the hunting season. He noted that 50 persons lost their lives in Missouri traffic accidents from November 15 through November 24. All but ten of these traffic victims died in rural mishaps. He urged hunters, and all drivers, to be attentive, refrain from drinking before driving and to obey traffic regulations.

Colonel Hockaday then noted the following basic safety tips for hunters: 1. Don't carry a loaded rifle in the car. 2. Always be sure the rifle barrel and action are clear of obstruction. 3. Never climb a tree or fence with a loaded gun. 4. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger. 5. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.

"While 50 persons were killed in Missouri vehicular accidents last year during the deer season, three hunters were accidently shot and killed, and five others were wounded," The Colonel stated. "It behooves everyone, therefore, to use common sense and obey the rules both on and off the highway during the deer season."

WHAT ISN'T NEWS

The reporters who check the police blotters in Washington, D.C. tend to be a cut above those who draw such assignments in cities of comparable size across the country. Newspaper and wire - service editors have learned that only top - notch reporters can ferret out the ramifications of a crime story when national figures are involved.

But the establishment has found ways to mock and frustrate even the best reporters. A classic case has just come to light.

Back on August 26, while the Senate was debating the qualifications of Justice Abe Fortas to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, somebody looted the offices of his former law firm, in which his wife of cigar - smoking fame, Carolyn Agger Fortas, is still a partner.

Like every other woman that you know, Mrs. Fortas kept $22,160 in jewelry in the office safe. The records actually show that the stolen jewelry belonged to Justice and Mrs. Fortas, although precisely what items were his and hers isn't clear. What is clear is that the incident was kept from the press and the public at the time.

Justice Department spokesmen shuffle their feet in embarrassment and say, shucks, we thought the break - in might have been some way involved with the furor over Justice Fortas's nomination. Further than that, no comment.

The District of Columbia Police pooh-pooh that idea and disavow any evidence that other than robbery was involved, but do think that several persons participated since a safe that was looted was a giant 22 by 24 by 58 inches, which is a bit of poundage to wrestle around and break open.

Don't think for a moment that the authorities are making a full report on the August 26 event, however. In fact, the whole affair came to light in Toledo, Ohio, where a lawyer went into court to tell a Federal Judge how an inventory of the documents ransacked out of the hefty safe in Washington turned up some papers subpoenaed by the Justice Department, and which had earlier been reported destroyed. Your Honor, he said, those papers hadn't been destroyed at all; they were safe all the time in that safe that got robbed.

Reporters have lots of leads now. Sooner or later you'll get the August 26 news out of Washington, Toledo and perhaps other points.

MORE Civilian employment in the Executive Branch of the Federal government totaled 3,052,690 as of June 30, representing an increase of 83,999 — almost 4,000 per working day — during that month. The figure reflects increases in regular seasonal employment as well as temporary summer youth employment. Preliminary estimates are that the number of Federal full - time workers was cut by 63,000 in fiscal 1969 in agencies subject to the personnel ceiling provisions set by Congress last year, a cut partially offset by increases ( of about 25,000) in agencies not affected.

TIME TO GET WELL

The decade just passed has been called the "Sick Sixties." The reference probably is directed at some of the most obvious facets of the society of the Sixties, such as the drug culture, acid-rock "music," and the questionable level to which the arts have sunk. The sickness of the dropouts in our society is understandable. But when earnest, industrious, considerate citizens act against their best interests, or fail to act in their own interest, something has to be wrong with them.

Also, shortsightedness, ignorance, and apathy may cause citizens to allowtheir society to be destroyed by the worst, until they are rudely awakened. But while it is one thing to make mistakes when one is uniformed, misinformed, or mistaken, it is something else to continue on the same course when the error of one's ways becomes obvious.

So it is strange, indeed, that the good citizens of the United States, confronted with the evidence of what is causing the disruption of their society, continue to tolerate the disruptive forces, or that they continue to tolerate the elected officials, college administrators, and others who directly permit such goings-on.

It is time to replace administrators and regents who do not enforce the rules -- to recall representatives who do not represent -- to demand that the law be carried out, with protection for the rights of minorities, but no privilege for their demands -- to refuse re-entry to those who consort with the enemy in Havana, Algiers, and Hanoi. ## By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--An undercover man has tipped off the Customs Bureau that the Weatherman are trying to steal germs from the bacteriological warfare center at Fort Detrick, Md., to contaminate a city water suppply.

Their alleged aim is "to incapacitate a population by infection for seven to ten days."

The Weathermen are radical revolutionaries who seek to outrage the public by dramatic acts of violence they believe will create a repressive climate that will alienate nonviolent radicals. As the repression becomes more harsh, according to their plan, the alienation will increase until they have a violent basis for overthrowing the government.

Militant Weathermen, wearing football helmets and steel-toed boots, opened their campaign of violence in October, 1969, by going on a four-day rampage throught the streets of Chicago. Subsequently, they conducted a rash of bombings across the country.

The more outrageous the atrocity, the better it suits the Weathermen strategy. They were elated, for example, over the bizarre Sharon Tate killings. The Weathermen's fugitive queen, Bernardine Dohrn, told a war council happily: "Dig it! First they killed those pigs, then they ate dinner in the same room with them, then they even shovel a fork into a victim's stomach! Wild!"

The contamination of a city water supply, spreading infection to the whole population, is the sort of spectacular havoc that would appeal to the Weathermen. They hope to get the germ culture, the informant claimed, by blackmailing a homosexual lieutenant at Fort Detrick.

This column has copies of the informant's confidential reports to the Customs Bureau. The first report, dated November 3, tells of an approach from a drug pusher for "information on what kind of bacteria would be effective and would bypass the filtering system of a city and would incapacitate a population by infection for seven to ten days. BLACKMA "He stated to me that he was merely engaged in a discussion with some SDS Weathermen as to the possibility of this...He asked me to contact the (homosexual) officer I know there and set him up for a discussion, and mentioned the possibility of the use of black mail to induce the 'gay' officer in question to cooperate.

"It is necessary that this information be passed to G-2 military intelligence of the Department of the Army, as even the thought of such attempted theft from Detrick is staggering to imagine."

The drug pusher made a second approach a few days later. In a report dated November 11, the informant stated: "He (the pusher) suggested that I obtain pictures and records that could be used to blackmail this officer into furnishing information as to the nature and character of a BW weapon that (1) is capable of felling by infection, but not fatal infection, the entire population of a large city for seven to ten days, and (2) would pass through the water filtering plant of a large city and go directly into the homes of the population."

Two days later, the informant submitted another report, declaring: "....(the pusher) stated that in addition to the germ cultures previously described, that he also wanted a quantity of nerve gas similar to Mace but more powerful that will absolutely put out of consciousness a large number of people at one time, but one that will not be fatal.

"He state that he was not interested in the types used to frighten cats and mice in recent tests. He stated that he has been trained to procure the BW material for over a year, and he has interested parties that will purchase the right thing for a lot of money."

Footnote: The Weatherman take their nickname from their revolutionary manifesto entitled, "You Don't Need a Weatherman to Know Which Way the Wind Blows." Their national directorate is called the "Weather Bureau," and local chapters are known as collectives.

HICKEL'S PICKLE

Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel has gained national acclaim for standing up to the White House. But he quietly backed down when the White House brought pressure on him to cancel a national pollution conference he had scheduled for this fall.

The conference was set up to present four days of seminars, with commercial exhibits featuring anti-pollution equipment and services. But John Ehrlichman, the White House czar over domestic affairs, was piqued at Hickel for speaking out on President Nixon's isolation from youth.

Ehrichman's aides began to carp and criticize behind the scenes against the pollution conference. Health, Education, and Welfare officials, who were miffed at Hickel for stealing the anti-pollution spotlight away from them, joined in then the sniping. They complained petulantly that it was a conflict to have private exhibitors at a goverment anti-pollution pwowow.

Wearily, Wally Hickel, already in the presidential doghouse for his outspokenness, decided he couldn't fight the White House at every turn So he regretfully canceled the conference. He made up a phony excuse, saying his office would be too busy setting up a new enviromental agency to carry on with the conference.

But the Interior Department had already contracted out the planning work to two private firms, Courtesy Associates and Ralph Whitner & Co. This column has now obtained the Interior letter confirming that they will be paid $65,823 on the cancelled contract.

The original plan was to pay the cost with registration fees and charges to the exhibitors. But these funds, of course, are not now available. The money to pay off the contractors willnot come from the White House, for from HEW, or even from Hickel's funds. Instead, the under-funded pollution fighters themselves–the Federal Water Quality Administration–will have to pay the entire $65,823.

NO BENEFITS NEEDED

Republican insiders are passing the word that the reason the gravely ailing Sen. Karl Mundt, R—S.D., won't resign is that his wife, Mary, would be deprived of special benefits for the widow of a Senator who dies in office.

Sen. Mundt has been under pressure from the GOP to step down immediately so that his successor could be appointed by the present Republican governor of South Dakota, who will be replaced in January by a Democrat.

Mrs. Mundt, however, told this colum that she was unaware of any extra benefits for widows of sitting Senators and would not accept them if they were offered.

"I'm not interested in money. I didn't know there were any benefits and I wouldn't want them. We can take care of ourselves," she said.

EXCLUSIVE: Nixon, angered by Wage-Price Rocketing, Plans to Zero in on Construction Field First

WASHINGTON: -- Love of money may be the root of all evil but this inflation is alienating the affection. And a trouble, puzzled and frustrated President Nixon plans to do something about it -- and soon, indeed.

In some fashion the President shortly will attempt to contain wages and prices.

There will be no freeze. There will be no ceiling on incomes. There will be no jawboning. But there will be some moves, with all the power and options the government has, to slow the escalator, top the ceiling, make the dollar worth something.

Just how? Well, there's a sharp, albeit still soft-tone battles inside what is called the White House -- which includes the Executive Office Building. And Federal Reserve Board Chairman, Arthur Burns, has not included himself out -- to quote from one of Sam Goldwyn's sagest of psalms.

The battle began several weeks before Election Day. It thundered one morning when insiders realized that the big campaign issue -- justifiably so -- was the economy, jobs, pockets of recession, geographic depression, worries in Washington and California over aerospace and in Boston over electronics.

At one point the President told his advisers that he wanted the economy to be so revived that there would be only four per cent unemployment by July 1, 1972. Those who agreed with his desire to open the economy found themselves stalked by the spectre of inflation which some on the inside believed they had smashed.

Others, including chairman Arthur Burns from afar, cautioned that open the money vlaves would ballon the economy again – an economy which, as one comedian put it, has shot up the cost of living so much it's cheaper to eat money.

But the President is insistent that the valves be opened. How much, not one yet knows.

The theory is that the "enemy" inflation has been braked and is retreating. Now is the time to narrow the sights and concentrate on specifics. What is the key factor? Inside the White House the word is – spiraling wages, especially construction wages.

Some statistics show that these have gone up 94.9 cents and hour in one quarter, or anywhere from 200 to 400 per cent higher than commercial and manufacturing costs. Or twice,three times that of any other group wages. But never mind the statisticians. Fact is that construction wages, now in some cities beginning to roll over $10 an hour without fringes, are pulling up all other cost and wages.

Furthermore, in many parts of the nation there is no "seasonability" says the President's advisers, so the construction workers are on the job the year round.

So the first move will be against the building and construction trade unions. How can this be manuevered without a wage freeze?

The U.S. government and the White House have an awesome arsenal of options.

And it will use them because, as Mr. Nixon's special adviser, Robert Finch, said in a private memo, Nov. 9, the Republicans want to run on "Peace and Prosperity issues" in 1972.

One of Mr. Nixon's specialist put it this way the other day:

"Once you get the economy doing about what you want it to do -- and we have-- then you turn you attention to specific wants. This is largely in wage and price areas. There are powerful implications for the public in some of these labor settlements.

"And businessmen and union men will be unwise to believe that we in this circle are not aware that the public interest always is at the bargaining table."

What are the options which those who are so "aware" can use? There is an act called the Davis-Bacon law which says that the government may have some ideas of what those wages are on billions of dollars worth of contracts.

Special hiring regulations and state certification of skills can be invoked. Contracts can be manipulated, delayed or placed in "other" sections of the land, "other" from those areas where the unions have concentrated power.

'The government is powerful," siad the White House specialist , "and the unions and companies had better take warning and heed."

There is vast power in the office and voice of the President. He, or his Commission on Productivity, can talk loudly of wages not matching productivity -- and of prices being out of range. And he could smash prices, as he did in timber about a years ago. And with the de-escalation would come layoffs and lower wages.

Point is that the sotto voce scrap is one inside the White House – and that the President plans to move.

Just how he will keep wages and prices down without a legal freeze, just how he will thaw out the job makret and get the 5.6 percent unemployed back to work, will take some decisive action. But the word is, that is what is coming -- especially on construction wages. And some prices.

There are some mighty powerful options in the President's arsenal.

Grandma, platinum blonde

Dear Ann Landers: Whatever happened to Grandma? I mean that gentle,soft-spoken matronly woman with the silver-gray hair and glasses? She wore floral print house dresses and sensible shoes. Her grandchildren loved to sit at her feet and listen to old stories about "the olden days."

I had two wonderful grandmothers. They were an important part of my growing-up years. My own children, I'm sorry to say, are less fortunate. One Grandma lives a thousand miles away. The other Grandma is withing 20 minutes by car but we rarely see her. The in-town Grandma is a platinum blond. She wears fake eyelashes, 11 pounds of jewelry, no bra, cigaret holder -- the whole bit. Herlife revolves around the beauty shop, her exercise class and shopping for clothes. Her main goal in life is to look 10 years younger than her sister who is two years older.

The children have been asked to call her by her first name. Half the time she can't remember theirs. Grandma is unquestionably a knockout for 50 but I feel, somehow, my children are being cheated. What values will they learn from their grandmother? How will they remember her? ---Sad Natalie

Dear Sad: Your children will remember Grandma as a platinum blonde, with fake eyelashes, 11 pounds of jewelry, no bra and a cigaret holder. What values will they learn from her? None. She isn't around enough. And from your description, it's just as well.

Dear Ann Landers: Bill, age 40, was my steady fellow for three years. He received an attractive job offer in another city and asked me to go with him. Had he suggested marriage I would have said yes, but he did not.

That was two years ago. Bill is back in town, vague about why the job didn't work out and full of stories about a "Crooked" boss and "underhanded people." He is argumentative and blows up if he doesn't get his way. Last night he said I was trying to get rid of him because I have a new love. This is absurd. Perhaps I should tell you Bill complains about severe headaches but refuses to see a doctor. Frankly, I want to end our relationship but I'm afraid of what he might do to me. Help me, please. ---Terrified

Dear T.: Tell Billit's over. If he bothers you, get a peace bond. As a final gesture of friendship, urge him to see a doctor about a thorough neurological examination. His erratic behavior suggests personality changes for whick there might be an organic reason.

Dear Ann Landers: Last night my husband and I attended a public meeting. I was seated on the stage and had a good view of 1700 people. What I saw made me ashamed of my fellow Americans.

When the National Anthem was played, some people didn't even stand up. Several men did not remove their hats. A few dozen people (men and women both) saluted. Others placed their hands over their hearts. Some people didn't know their hearts are on the left side.

Half the people I watched didn't know the words. They faked it or didn't sing at all. Comment please.---Phil

Dear Phil: When the National Anthem is played, everyone should stand. Men should removed their hats. If the flag is on display the hand should be placed over the heart. For those who don't know, the heart is on the left side.

Arts and crafts show in Charleston armory

Inaugural gown dolls collection to be featured

The second annual Arts and Crafts Show, sponsored by the Mississippi County Historical Society and Art Gallery, will be held Saturday and Sunday, in the Charleston Armory on South Main street in Charleston.

The highlight of this year's exhibit will be the presidential inaugural gown doll collection owned by Mrs. Fern Collins of Colorado, the former Miss Fern Morris of Charleston. Mrs. Collins will have other items on exhibit, including collection of 8-inch dolls which are reproductions of the models shown in the 1865 Gody's Lady Book, framed samplers, afghans and antique dolls.

Hand-made Christmas ornaments, needlework, stuffed animals and Persain antiquing will be for sale. Area artists will display for sale art work including miniatures.

There will be a bake sale Saturday beginning at noon. Mrs. Ray Hillhouse, chairman of the food section, promises an ample supply of cakes, pies, pastries, cookies and candies and suggests this as a good time to plan Thanksgiving dessert.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Goodin and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Story, all of Charleston, share chairmanship of the show. Mrs. Sam Cox Goodin will be treasurer.

Hours are from 12 noon to 6 p.m. Saturday and from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday. There is no admission charge.

Proceeds from the sale of foods and donated craft items will support the Mississippi County Historical Society Museum and Art Gallery. Due to a shortage of funds, the gallery and museum, located in the old hotel building at 202 East Commercial in Charleston, has been closed, except by special appointment, since July. The Society tours an average of 10,000 people a year through the gallery, museum and Hearnes Room.

Chiefs Favored Over Big Red

NEW YORK (AP) — Back into the ball game after a week's layoff, body rested, mind alert—and ready to predict that the Western Division race in the National Football Conference will be all but wrapped up Sunday by San Francisco's 49ers.

The 49ers, two games ahead of the Los Angeles Rams, meet the tougher opponent in Detroit, while their West Coast neighbors take on Atlanta. But the 49ers will win, the Rams will lose.

Here are this week's picks, all games Sunday unless otherwise noted:

San Francisco 31, Detroit 17—The 49ers are rolling behind John Brodie, a rebuilt defense and a four-game winning streak. They have never won a division title. But this is the year. The Lions should be down after losing to Minnesota last week.

Atlanta 24, Los Angeles 21—Two weeks ago the Rams had to rally to tie the Falcons 10-10 and last week they were blasted by the New York Jets 31-20. The defensive unit is showing signs of its age, and Atlanta should be able to exploit what the Jets showed them.

Minnesota 35, Green Bay 24—The Vikings only loss in nine games was in an early season meeting with the Pakcers. But it would be difficult to imagine a club as strong as Minnesota losing to any opponent twice.

Oakland 28, San Diego 27—George Blanda may not be able to get the Raiders off the hook a fifth week in succession, but it does figure to be Daryle Lamonica's turn to grab a headline in this meeting in the American Conference's tough Western Division.

Kansas City 31, St. Louis 24—The Chiefs' offense may be ready to roll under the guidance of Len Dawson, and the defense is strong enough to shut down the Cardinals' ground-oriented attack revolving around MacArthur Lane.

Washington 34, Dallas 24—Both still in Eastern race behind Cardinals and Giants. Redskins, however, are clicking on offense. The Cowboys just aren't clicking.

Baltimore 28, Miami 21—The Dolphins should give the Colts more trouble than they did in a 35-0 loss earlier in the season. But the Baltimore defense is made of sterner stuff than Miami's.

Cleveland 42, Houston 21—The Browns aren't exactly terrors, but then Wally Lemm's quitting the Oilers for some reason. Even Charley Johnson's return at quarterback hasn't braked the skid.

Cincinnati 27, Pittsburgh 14—How Coach Paul Brown continues to pull off surprises for the Bengals is a constant amazement. But his play calling's been pretty good. It's a good time to stick with him.

Denver 17, New Orleans 10—The Broncos are slipping, but Floyd Little is No. 1 in the American Conference in rushing and should be able to run for daylight against the Saints.

Chicago 31, Buffalo 14—The Bills have a hot passing combination in Dennis Shaw to Marlin Briscoe, but are injury-riddled. The Bears gave Green Bay a tussle last week before succumbing.

New York Jets 34, Boston 10—The Jets' Al Woodall, Joe Namath's quarterback substitute, apparently has found himself. Joe Kapp still is looking.

MONDAY

New York Giants 37, Philadelphia 20—The Giants have the most versatile back in the NFC—Ron Johnson—and the go fostered by six straight victories. The Eagles haven't won that many even if you count last year.

BOWLING TERMS

KITTY — Money collected by team capitain from members for errors, splits or other prearranged fines; usually divided equally among the members or used to defray tournament expenses.

LIFT— Giving the ball an upward motion with the fingers at point of released.

LOFTING — Throwing the ball in the air beyond the line.

MAPLES — Synonym for pins.

MARK — A strike or spare.

MISS— An error or blow.

MOVE IN — To start from or near a center position on the approach.

MOVE OUT — To start from or near a corner position on the approach.

NOSE HIT — A hit full on the headpin.

OUT AND IN — A wide hook on running lanes where the bowler delivers his ball in the center of the lane and aims it toward the gutter (channel). The hook comes back to the headpin.

PINCHING THE BALL — Gripping the ball hard enough to cause an unnatural delivery.

PITCH — The angle at which the hole is bored in a ball.

RAILROAD — Synonym for split; in some areas refers to SLEEPER.

ABA Attendance Up 33 Per Cent

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The commissioners of the American Basketball Association met Thursday to hear progress reports on television plans, attendance and recruiting, but took no formal action.

ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph reported at a news conference after the meeting that attendance for the league is up 33 per cent this year.

Dolph said that this week he approved a dozen new merchandising contracts for the league, including everything from earrings to pennants.

On more controversial topics, however he would only say that the league owners had met to "bring ourselves up to date on television, recruiting, merger status and to make some plans."

As he sees it, Dolph said, merger between the ABA and the National Basketball Association is inevitable. And, he said, he feels there is about a 50 per cent chance of the two leagues operating a common draft this year.

Dolph declined to speculate about the amount of the league's television contract with CBS, noting that no decision has been made on the exact number of games to be played on television. He estimated that there will be about seven televised games, besides the All-Star contest and said agreement has been reached on three of these.

Nebraska "Is No. 1"

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Nebraska can pick up all of the marbles Saturday when the third-ranked Cornhuskers face Oklahoma's young Sooners in the down-to-the-wire race for the Big Eight Conference football championship.

A victory or a tie wil give Nebraska the title. If Oklahoma wins, the Sooners would still have to beat Oklahoma State Nov. 28 to share the crown. Nebraska, Orange Bowl bound, is 6-0 in conference play and Oklahoma 4-1.

Coaches Bob Devaney of Nebraska and Chuck Fairbanks of Oklahoma agree Nebraska is the nation's best football team regardless of what the rating poll shows.

"Nebraska has the best team in the nation right now," says Fairbanks. "They have tremendous balance between their offense and defense...

"I don't know if our young team has the capability to beat Nebraska or not. I do know we will play with all the determination we can muster."

Two other conference games have no title race significance. Iowa State, 1-5, invades Oklahoma State, 1-4, and the loser likely will wind up in the basement. Kansas, 2-4, travels to Missouri, also 2-4, and the winner will get a tie for fourth place.

Two non-conference games find Colorado, 5-4, at Air Force, ranked No. 10 and one of the Sugar Bowl teams, and Kansas State, 6-4, at Florida State.

Oklahoma will bank heavily on a sophomore-studded backfield that includes Joe Wylie, Leon Crosswhite and Greg Pruitt plus junior quarterback Jack Mildren.

The Sooners must not only contain the passing of Jerry Tagge and Van Brownson but put the damper on the running of aces Joe Orduna, who scored four touchdowns against Kansas State in a 51-13 victory last week; Jeff Kinney, and Johnny Rodgers.

Oklahoma has received invitations from four bowls. However, Fairbanks thinks the Sooners will have to play well against Nebraska to remain in the bowl picture. "I don't know if we would want to play in a bowl game ifwe get embarrassed up there," he says.

Oklahoma State faces the league's topp team on pass defense in Iowa State, and the passing of the Cowboys' Tony Pounds is one of their stronger points.

Missouri Coach Dan Devine has said the Tigers plan to throw the ball "quite a bit" in their traditional game with Kansas.

Kansas will be strengthened by the return of defensive tackle Duke Holden.

Colorado faces a severe test in trying to stop flanker Ernie Jennings, fastest player in Air Force history. The Buffs hope to generate enough offense from Jon Keyworth, Clifford Branch, Ward Walsh and John Tarver to turn back the Falcons.

Kansas State has lost receiver John Goerger and likely will be without linebacker Oscar Gibson against Florida State. A Wildcat victory would make Kansas State's season 7-4, best since 1954.

Kansas State Coach Vince Gibson also would like to win because he and four of his assistants either played for Florida State or coached there at one time. xz2acs Nov. 20

Mustangs Kick Tigers Out of Tournament

WARDELL — Coach Dave McMahon's North Pemiscot Mustangs earned a berth in the finals of their own invitational tournament last night as they crushed the visiting Risco Rigers 83-60. The night's action also saw Naylor put it on Clarkton 62-46 to gain a similar position in the tourney's consolation bracket.

Naylor used their eagle eye charity throw shooting to vault them into consolation contention by connecting on 20 of 28 of the one pointers. Field goals were just about balanced between the two squads, as Naylor hit twenty- one and Clarkton twenty, but Clarkton's lowly six free shots spelled the contest's difference.

Senior Kenny Day was on a wild scoring streak for the victorious Eagles as he ended the night's action with 23 big points. Larry Purdom and Ronnie Parrent aided in the Reindeer's downfall as they hit 18 and 15 respectively.

Naylor will now meet the victor of tonight's Campbell - Gideon tilt Saturday at 6:30 for the consolation spoils.

North Pemiscot stretched their powerful muscles once again for the home- town crowd in Ross Gym with their second pasteing in two tourney outings. Before last night's 83-60 win over Risco, the Mustangs had also romped Clarkton 83-40.

The number one seeded Mustangs shot a blistering fifty-four percent from the field, as they found the range on 35 of 64 field shots. North Pem committed thirty- one fouls, however, but Risco still couldn't close the wide gap between the two squads. The Tigers had fourty- eight shots from the free throw line, but only made good on twenty- four.

North Pemiscot placed five men in the twin figure column, with Johnny Burlison on top with 17. Randy White and Tony Winston followed closely, as they pumped in 14 and 13. Blackmon and McCulloch brought up the high echelon's rear with 11 and 10 markers respectively.

Randy Terry managed to lead all scorers for the night, however, as he burned in twenty five big points in the Tigers losing cause. Darrell Wood was the only other Tiger to hit in double figures, as he accounted for 15 of Risco's total.

North Pem will now watch the Holcomb - Caruthersville contest tonight closely, as they will meet the victor in Saturday night's final and tele- telling game.

Pistons Struggling

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cincinnati Royals added insult to injury by finally beating the New York Knicks while the Detroit Pistons were happy just to beat anyone.

The Pistons, suffering through a six-game losing streak after winning 12 of their first 13 games, came from behind to nip the Phoenix Suns 112-110 in Detroit Thursday night in a National Basketball Association game.

The Royals, trounced twice earlier by the Knicks, blew a 21-point lead before staving off the Knicks 106-98 in New York as the world champions played without injured Willis Reed, Cazzie Russell and Dave DeBusschere.

In the only other NBA game, Seattle beat Los Angeles 111-110.

In the American Basketball Association, Utah crushed Texas 130-115 and the Floridians nudged Memphis 108-103 in the only games.

Reed missed his second game with a sore knee and DeBusschere left in the first quarter when he aggravated a bad ankle. Russel is out with a broken wrist. The Knicks fell behind 62-45 at the half.

However, they came out with 6-foot-7 Dave Stallworth playing center, 6-5 Bill Bradley and three guards for the third quarter and staged a furious rally, finally pulling even at 96 and then 98 as Stallworth had 21 points and 19 rebounds.

However, Nate Archibald, a 22-point scorer with teammate Tom Van Arsdale—Walt Frazier had 28 for New York—hit a basket with 1:47 left and two free throws 16 seconds later and the Royals scored the last eight points.

During those final minutes, Royals' Coach Bob Cousy suffered a dizzy spell, but stayed on the bench for the end of the game. He was examined later and pronounced fit, although he was to have a more intensive check-up today.

The Pistons blew a 14-point lead in the second quarter but still led by five with 3:25 to go before Phoenix stormed into the lead 110-108. However, Bob Lanier scored for Detroit with 30 seconds left and then passed to Steve Mix for a driving layup with four seconds to go for the winning basket.

Jimmy Walker had 23 points for Detroit and Clem Haskins 24 for Phoenix.

Los Angeles rookie Jim McMillan missed two of three foul shots in the waning seconds enabling Seattle to outlast the Lakers. Garfield Heard had scored the field goal that put the Sonics ahead 111-108 with a minute left.

Wilt Chamberlain of Los Angeles was game-high scorer with 32 points while Don Kojis topped Seattle with 26.

Donnie Freeman scored 22 of his 24 points in the first half as Utah ran off to a 69-48 lead and was never threatened, winning for the 13th time in 16 games. Glen Combs had 30 for the Texans, now 2-12.

The Floridians blew all but six points of a 71-52 lead as Memphis climbed within 104-98 with one minute left before Larry Jones and Mack Calvin cut short the rally. Jones finished with 27 points, one less than teammate Sam Robinson.

"Revenge Bowl" Saturday.

By The Associated Press

All sorts of post- season invitations will be flying through the air Saturday but two of the games highlighting the day's collegiate action could be dubbed "Revenge Bowls.'.

ohio State's Woody Hayes wants revenge and so does Louisiana State's Charlie McClendon.

Fourth- ranked Michigan invades Hayes' lair to play No. 5 Ohio State, which wants retribution for that shocking 24-12 loss to the Wolverines a year ago.

For McClendon and his Bengals from the Bayous, a victory over second- ranked Notre Dame would be in the measure of poetic justice. Charlie Mac and his boys spent last New Year's Day at home after the Irish suddenly abandoned their no-bowl policy and went to the Cotton Bowl.

'i.m trying not to make this game any bigger than it is," mcClendon says of his clash with Notre Dame, which he calls "the biggest and most talented team we have ever played."

With No. 1 Texas idle this week, Parseghian knows his Irish must hustle against LSU. "They're absolutely amazing on defense," Parseghian proclaims of the Tigers. ',no one has scored a touchdown against them on the ground in 11 games."

The Michigan - Ohio State game is one of the afternoon's two nationally televised ABC affairs. The Southern California - UCLA battle, which this year doesn't involve much more than the Los Angeles city championship, follows.

Hayes has had his training area sealed off this week and Columbus resembles a top- secret military base. The game between the two unbeaten Big Ten powers is for the conference championship. Ohio State has already cinched a trip to the Rose Bowl, where its Jan. 1 opponent will be Stanford, but Hayes is aching to beat "that other team," the only way he refers to Michigan.

Third- ranked Nebraska, already tabbed for the Orange Bowl, entertains Oklahoma for the Big Eight championship Saturday.

Only a handful of teams could accept bowl bids prior to this Saturday. Nebraska was one and 10th- ranked Air Force, which opted for the Sugar Bowl, was another. Air Force plays Colorado this week.

Sixth- ranked Arkansas invades No. 19 Texas Tech in a game which could have a bearing on the host role in the Cotton Bowl and where Notre Dame goes.

It's a pretty involved situation. If Texas Tech beats Arkansas and either Arkansas or Texas A&M upset Texas, then Texas Tech would earn the host spot in the Cotton Bowl. If the Red Raiders beat Arkansas this Saturday, then the best guess is that Notre Dame - provided it wins -- wil take the Orange Bowl bid in preference to a return trip to the Cotton Bowl.

Parseghian has made no bones about wanting to go to the bowl where the ranking is - and that would be the Cotton Bowl for a rematch with Texas if the Longhorns survive their Dec. 5 clash with Arkansas.

The Sugar Bowl, meanwhile, is expected to offer the host's role to No. 8 Tennessee if the Vols get by lowly Kentucky as expected this Saturday.

The Orange Bowl, if snubbed by Notre Dame, has its choice of either Arkansas or LSU, but could turn to either No. 12 Mississippi or No. 13 Auburn. Both the Rebels and the Plainsmen are idle this week and it is expected that the Gator Bowl will invite one or both at sundown Saturday.

Arizona State, No. 9, hosts New Mexico Saturday night in the only after- dark game involving a team in the Top Ten. And in a clash tonight at Anaheim, No. 14 San Diego State plays Long Beach State.

Stanford, No. 11, is at California: No. 15 Toledo hosts Colorado State; No. 16 Dartmouth is at Penn; No. 18 Northwestern is at Michigan State and No. 20 Penn State entertains Pitt in games involving the second ten. Georgia Tech, No. 17, is idle.

And then there is THE game, although neither bowl trips nor national rankings are involved. For the 87th time, Yale and Harvard will slug it out on the gridiron. The game this year is at Cambridge, Mass. and Yale is a touchdown favorite.

Dexter Hosts 3A Semi-Final Bout

DEXTER — The Daily Standard's "coach of The Year", Clyde Vaughn, leads his Dexter Bearcat footballers against St. Louis Lutheran South in a semi-final round game of the Missouri State High School Activities Association state football playoffs here Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Dexter, the hottest team through the stretch in the Southern Division title race, will send its 9-1 Cats against a 5-4 St. Louis power.

Lutheran, who's shcedule was built around 4-A St. Louis powers, have the worst record among the four teams entered in Saturday's semi-final round. The other 3A playoff battle is at Chillicothe where the host (9-0) meet Warrensburg (7-1-1), and the worst of any team making the playoffs in any of the four classes.

But, don't let that record fool you! The Lancers, members of the always football tough ABC league and coached by Lloyd Holsten, will display a hard hitting defense and a swift running ground game against the Bearcats combination of running and passing.

Coach Holsten was overjoyed last Saturday when his team was announced for the semi-finals and noted: "We've been known for our basketball talents but not for our football, this is just great!"

Dexter on the other hand is not a stranger at either spot and have encountered the Lancers on the hardwoods in previous seasons, the latest in the first round of the state basketball tournament last season where Lutheran prevailed and eventually claimed second in the Class M final.

So, with Lutheran leading 1-0 in the competition this year (1970), the Bearcats have got a little added incentative for Saturday's semi-final round battle.

Coach Vaughn's squad moved down the stretch of its schedule, bowling over Sikeston and Poplar Bluff in successive weeks and then capped its regular season with a 12-6 verdict over Malden for a share of the Southern Division championship and the playoff berth.

Dexter wore down the Green Waves with its platooning and capitalized in the fourth period, scoring 12 points to erase a 6-0 three quarter lead of Malden.

Terry Gibson, Southeast Missouri's second leading scorer during the season with 108 points, and Bruce Hindman provided the Bearcats with a solid one-two punch in a running game and the combination of David Mathis and Rick Barber make for the district's top passing combination.

Lutheran wasn't even mentioned in the St. Louis Globe's latest prep basketball poll and hasn't been listed among the top ten of the class since early in the season.

Hunting Success

DEAN KING' 715 Troy, bagged this 225- pound--eight point buck Saturday near Zalma.

ONE OF THE AREA'S biggest deer kills of the season was recorded by Jim Woods, 923 Hawthorn, who displays a 10- point -- 215 pound buck killed near West Plains Saturday while hunting as a guest of Presley Trailer Sales.

KENNETH NIMMO, route four Sikeston, bagged an eight- point--180 pound buck Sunday near Van Buren.

What They Look For

When a checker at a deer station looks in your deer's mouth during the Nov. 14-23 season, he isn't looking for gold fillings or inflamed tonsils. He's trying to find out how old the animal is.

It's all part of the involved and sometimes confusing process known as "managing the deer herd."

The first thing the deer checker does is pat the deer on the head if it doesn't have visible antlers. Hunters with trophy bucks also may get a pat on the back, but that has nothing to do with game management.

The head pat tells the checker if the deer is a button buck. Next step is to weigh the deer. Live weight can be calculated from the dressed weight. A rule of thumb is to divide the dressed weight by five and add the answer to the dressed weight to get live weight.

Next the checker looks to see if the hunter left in the heart, liver and lungs and, if so, he adjusts his weight figure. Then comes the dental exam.

Fawns from four to seven months old have only four teeth. Yearlings have 6 teeth but have temporary pre- molars. The third pre- molar has three peaks (permanent teeth have only two peaks). If the deer has permanent teeth, the checker looks for the amount of wear.

From experience and from a chart furnished each check station or from a box of representative jaw bones also furnished each station, the checker gets a good idea how old the deer is. He'd be pretty safe guessing the animal is three years or younger, since 95 per cent of the deer checked in Missouri fall in that category.

Next, the checker measures the hind foot from hock to the tip of the hoof and the antler circumferance, an inch bove the head if it is a buck.

Both these measurements, compared with measurements from the same part of the state over the years, gives the biologist an idea of the condition of the range.

Where deer are poorly fed, the skeletal structure will be smaller -- meaning the hind foot will be shorter. Antlers also will be smaller. It is through such subtle hints as these that deer managers can identify overpopulation which is leading to destruction of deer range.

Biologists at a busy check station will perform all these oeprations in bout 30 seconds. Frequently, there are special experiments or checks going on at the Department which require extra procedures.

For several years, checkers took blood samples and were able to prove that deer don't carry brucellosis, something which had worried cattle raisers, and that deer are not responsible for the spread of disease to livestock.

Another time, checkers collected ovaries so deer biologists could study reproductive potential. The biologists learned that most mature does produce twin fawns each year and that up to 75 per cent of female fawns in good range potentially will produce fawns.

In one special study, biologists collected deer eyeballs to see if lens weights, used in aging rabbits, would not work equally well for deer. But the method proved no better than the tooth check, so that procedure was retained.

"Next deer...."

An eight point buck was the prize for Terry Manes, route one Sikeston, when he went hunting Monday near Van Buren. The buck weighted in at 240 pounds.

Deer Kill Reaches 26,821

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri hunters killed only 322 deer Thursday, causing speculation that many are waiting for the weekend to prowl the woods.

The conservation department said the total for the first six days of the 10- day season was 26,821. In a similar period last year the figure was 20,552, and in all 10 days last year the count was 23,884.

Although only five deer were killed Thursday in Texas County it still led with 1,174. Howell County had 1,014, Benton 946 and Ozark 836.

GARRY LOVE, of 2012 Kentucky, bagged his first deer of the season Saturday near Van Buren. The 10 point, 230 lbs. buck, is one of the largest this season.

Hoover and Clark Swap Verbal Shots

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, apparently uneasy bedfellows in law enforcement for two years, have publicly divorced themselves with verbal blasts at each other.

Clark, Hoover's boss from 1967 to 1969, fired the first shot. The 76-year-old director's "self-centered concern for his own reputation," said Clark in a new book, led to the FBI's sacrifice of "effective crime control."

Hoover, in turn, told a Washington Post reporter that Clark was "a jellyfish," the worst attorney general in the 45 years Hoover has headed the elite federal law enforcement agency.

While a 1964 confrontation over standards for FBI agents resulted in Hoover's refusal to speak to the late Robert F. Kennedy in the last six months of his tenure as attorney general, the director told the Washington Post in an interview:

"If ever there was a worse attorney general, it was Ramsey Clark. You never knew which way he was going to flop on an issue.

"He was worse than Bobby (Kennedy)," the newspaper's Tuesday editions quoted Hoover as saying. "At least Kennedy stuck by his guns, even when he was wrong."

At a news conference in New York Tuesday, Clark said Hoover was "entitled to his own opinions," adding that the FBI director had never made his comments to him directly.

"Mr. Hoover has never been terribly tolerant of criticism," Clark said. He added, however, "I think Mr. Hoover has made

Hoover termed Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, his current boss, an "honest, sincere and very human man."

"There has never been an attorney general for whom I've had higher regard," the Post quoted him as saying.

In his book, "Crime in America," Clark charged "the FBI has so coveted personal credit that it will sacrifice ever effective crime control before it will share the glory of its exploits.

"This has been a petty and costly characteristic caused by the excessive domination of a single person, J. Edgar Hoover, and his self-centered concern for his reputation and that of the FBI."

Advance publicity on the book stirred Hoover to momentarily lower a barrier between himself and newsmen that had existed for three years.

Judging by past public statements of both men, Hoover and Clark were poles apart in their philosophical approach to law enforcement.

Clark displayed a tendency to search for the social and economic causes of crime; Hoover is less willing to forgive. Clark supported the Supreme Court decisions expanding rights of the accused; to Hoover they are "handcuffs" on the police.

Clark, considered a potential dark horse for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, said in his book a rift developed between Kennedy and Hoover over pursuit of organized crime.

The FBI Clark said, continued to dramatize the peril of the Communist party "long after there was any risk to national security from that source."

Hoover, however, gave other reasons for his rift with Kennedy.

"The trouble was that Kennedy wanted to loosen up our standards and qualifications; to discard the requirement that agents hold degrees in law or accounting. He even wanted to discard the bachelor's degree as a requirement," Hoover was quoted as saying.

Commenting on campus unrest, Hoover repeated to the Post his criticism of permissive college administrators and said reports that 1,000 new FBI agents, authorized by the 1970 Omnibus Crime Control Act, would be assigned to campuses were "absolutely untrue."

He also was described as denying that the FBI had reached any conclusions about the death of four students in a confrontation with Ohio National Guardsmen last May 4 at Kent State University. Any conclusions, he said, were made by the Justice Department from an objective FBI report.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

Governor Warren Hearnes has put forward what is likely the most constructive tax program of his administration, in his address to the special session of the General Assembly, called to meet the crisis situation which now exists in the state treasury relative to financing essential state services. His action was courageous, aggressive and practical. He should be commended by all forward-thinking and reasonable Missouri citizens, most of whom, we believe, are reconciled to the fact that state government is responsible for providing essential state services such as: education, old age assistance, mental health, medicaid, etc. even though a tax increase is necessary to support them.

The governor's program for raising the additional money needed, is sound. He asked for increases to double the taxation on beer, wine and liquor; that the corporate income tax be increased from 2-5% and that the individual income tax rate now ranging from 1-4% be changed to yield at a rate ranging from 2-6%. It was also the governors recommendation that all of these increases become effective January 1, 1971. These are sound recommendations. None of these taxes are now high nor would the recommended rates be out of line, in fact, Missourians would then be taxed at a rate considerably below the average for the 50 states.

Warren Hearnes has acted in accordance with the leadership role which the people of the state expected him to assume when he was elected governor. He has done this forthrightly and practically. It is now up to the General Assembly as to whether or not they will follow, by fully assuming the responsibility which they too took when they were elected to represent the best interest of all citizens of Missouri.

Some of them have stated that "the people have spoken" when they rejected the income tax package last April, that "the people do not want additional taxes." We think his is a week kneed, weaseling approach. Of course, people don't want additional taxes. But, certainly a majority of our citizens desire the services which are now being starved to death from lack of state financial support. They expect the General Assembly to develop ways for funding them. The governor's new tax program is different from the one presented in April, which in many aspects was confusing, and which became involved in political bickering and misrepresentation having no bearing on its merit, but further confusing the voter who acted in the usual fashion when issues are not clearly presented and voted "no." It is now up to the General Assembly to stand and be counted as to whether or not: they represent the people; believe in good government and in funding the services which the state should provide. Naturally, as it is our professional responsibility to try to bring about better educational opportunities for our children, we give education a high priority. In fact, funding education is second in priority in the Missouri Constitution, coming only behind paying the state's bonded indebtedness. Governor Warren Hearnes has been a strong proponent for better schools, since he entered the legislature 21 years ago. Our representatives, Tony Heckemeyer and Gene Copeland (part of our school district is in New Madrid County) have supported education in the past. Senators Albert Spradling and J. F. "Pat" Patterson have certainly done so. We believe that these men will continue to represent the interests of the people by whom they were elected by voting for the tax measures which are necesary if Missouri's schools and other essential state services are to be maintained.

All elementary schools will hold "Open House" next week in accordance with the following schedule: Southeast and Lee Hunter, Monday, November 23, 7 to 8:30 P.M. and Morehouse, Southwest and Matthews, Tuesday, November 24, 7 to 8:30 P.M.

All parents and other patrons are invited to attend. Parents are especially urged to meet their child's teacher and to become informed as to the program and as to what their particular child may be learning.

The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools is an organization formed to evaluate or to measure the programs of member schools in order to maintain a high level of educational standards. Our Senior High School is a member of that organization, as we have been for a very considerable number of years. It is a requirement that schools be re-evaluated not less than once every seven years. It has been seven years since our last evaluation, so we are now preparing to undergo that process which will cover a two year period.

The first phase will involve an appraisal by representatives of the community, the board of education and the faculty of the program of educational opportunities which we maintain. This is a most useful step as we can look at ourselves and become fully informed as to our strengths and weaknesses, to find out what our students can and are learning. It gives teachers an opportunity to more fully develop and understand the aims and philosophy of the school and how their particular assignments and effectiveness relate to these aims. We look at ourselves.

The second phase of the study, which will take place next year, will be done by a team of experienced educators, selected for their particular qualifications, who will come into the school for a minimum three- day period to make a careful study and examination of the educational program and how it is functioning. This team will consist of public, private school and university representatives, thoroughly familiar with the areas for which they are responsible. Their study will be detailed. Such areas as the school board, the school and community relationship, staff and administration, and every subject matter department or area will receive a careful evaluation.

Following the study, a comprehensive written report will be made to the community, the board of education and the faculty

The primary value of membership in the North Central, is that the community, the board and the faculty may be aware of our educational opportunities, thus to plan them for improvement and to better accomplish the educational aims which we should have. Other values are: that member schools maintain better educational programs because of the standards required and graduates have a somewhat better chance of being admitted to a college or university because college admissions directors are aware of the North Central's emphasis on high standards for its member schools.

More Yule Calls to Vietnam

More Vietnam servicemen will be able to talk with their families by phone this Christmas.

Six overseas telephone circuits have been added between the United States and Vietnam since last Christmas, bringing the total to 16 circuits.

However, persons wishing to reach servicemen in Vietnam should plan ahead for calling during the holiday rush.

It is generally easier for serviceman to call home than for his family to try to reach him there. Servicemen can call the U.S. from Saigon, Ton Son Nhut, Long Bhin, Cam Rahn Bay, Nha Trang, Qui Nhon and Da Nang. Calls from the U.S. can be place; only to Saigon.

It is difficult to reach a serviceman in Saigon unless the caller knows the man's unit, APO and a phone where he can be reached.

Servicemen call first-come-first-served from Vietnam, but it usually takes only a few minutes to call the states once a man gets to a phone at one of the Vietnam centers.

Callers should keep in mind the14-hour difference in U.S. and Saigon time. For example, when it is 11 a.m. December 25 here, it is 1 a.m. Dec. 26 in Saigon.

The POWER of FAITH

BY WOODI ISHMAEL

Amos was the third of the minor prophets in the Old Testament, although chronologically he was the earliest of them. He was a sheep farmer and tended the fig and mulberry trees. Living close to nature as he did, he saw God as the Lord of Nature, creator of the world and of man. He likened Him to a roaring lion in the forest and spoke of the "mourning" pastures and withered mountain tops.

Amos lived during a time when there was commercial expansion and development in Israel. He saw the social inequity and the rich and powerful oppressing the poor.

In Amos's prophecies his greatest concern was with social behavior and ethics. He condemned the luxury life of the cities, the dishonest merchants, those who diverted justice by bribery, the decline of social morality and the superficial attitude toward religion, with the sin and corruption in the temples and shrines. He prophesied that this would destroy Israel. We have our Amoses today, but do we listen?

Bible Reading No Longer So Laborious

NEW YORK (AP) — Bible reading, which used to demand struggling with a lot of archaic words and old-English quirks of style and meaning, now is much easier.

And this Sunday, countless thousands of Americans will begin doing it, on a special basis.

The occasion is National Bible Week.

Although this oldest book of books is packed with profundities that have engrossed scholars through the ages, stirred endless research and filled libraries with studious volumes of analysis, it also was meant for ordinary people.

And today, it is available to them in quantity of copies and in translations into modern, everyday language, to an extent unequaled before.

Several crisp, lively new translations have come out lately—the Catholic-sponsored New American Bible and Jerusalem Bible, and the Protestant-sponsored New English Bible—that make reading it a fresh experience.

All these translations involved Jewish-Catholic-Protestant cooperation, as did the relatively recent Protestant-sponsored Revised Standard Version. Others, such as the American Bible Society's popular "Today's English Version of the New Testament," also put the ancient truths in clearer, contemporary language.

National Bible Week, through which people are urged to join in a recommended sequence of daily Scripture readings, is sponsored by the Layman's National Bible Committee, the American Bible Society and the Catholic Biblical Association of America.

It used to be a more limited affair, the start of which generally is credited to the lay committee of Protestant, Jewish and Catholic businessmen in 1941, but the roots go back much further. In 1967, the Bible Society joined its support to the effort, as did the scholarly Catholic group last year.

The new interdenominational solidarity in boosting the Bible, as well as the surge of new, clearer translations, contrasts greatly with bygone situations, when copies were turgid or scarce, and the Bible itself was a cause of contention.

New Paths Augur Well for Religion

By DAVID POLING

"A growing number of people believe that religion is losing its influence on American life, according to the most recent data available from the American Institute of Public Opinion, Princeton, N.J." This statement comes from the "Yearbook of American Churches," published annually since 1914 and the most authoritative watchdog on church statistics.

The book carries pages of reports on finance, membership, and programs of most of the religious groups. This material is not generally read by those beyond denominational executives and prying sociologists. Yet some fascinating trends can be studied and the direction of organized religion rather carefully charted.

On this whole discussion of "religious influence," the yearbook adds these thoughts.

> "Twelve years ago, in 1957, only 14 per cent of all persons interviewed thought religion was losing ground in U.S. society. In 1968 (the year of most complete statistics) the figure was 67 per cent."

Yearbook editors suggest four reasons unearthed in the public opinion samplings:

- Young people are losing interest in formal religion; other influences are becoming more meaningful.
- Growing crime, immorality and violence.
- Materialistic distractions.
- The Church is not playing its proper role. (Some say it is not keeping up with the times, but as many more say it is too involved in social and political issues.)

Some additional observations made by those sampled: Young people from 19-21 were most pessimistic about the church scene. Church members shared the above four points as much as nonmembers. Opinion was universal.

The trends described point to serious trouble for the institutional church which desperately needs young people to carry on the work and traditions of the Faith. But we shall make a colossal error in judgment here if we think that religious influence of institutions is the same as religious interest and pursuit of people. The results may be manifest in unusual and exciting ways as tradition yields to innovation and inspiration.

Take the building thing. For the last five years new church construction has hit around $1 billion a year. It comes from the people who ride the bus to work, harvest the wheat and assemble the washing machines. Many thousands of families, when forced to decide between the building of a home or the construction of a cathedral, will in good sense look after the family.

On the other hand, you have a whole new breed of clergy that wants to build a fellowship of people, with or without bell tower. They know that bricks and stained glass and air-conditioned chapels are not what finally enlarges the Faith or extends the mission of Christ.

A good case can be made for a substantial increase in religious influence in the whole world. What we are seeing is not a decline in religion but a diffusion and this will bring hope and joy to millions of people who had never before been touched by the worn, tired programs of organized churches.

Catholic Financial Secrecy Criticized by Laymen's Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Association of Laymen (NAL) said Monday that finances of the Roman Catholic Church in this nation are so secretive that they indicate "an unquestionable existence" of vast wealth similar to big business.

The national laymen's organization, which claims a membership of 12,000, released a 35-page financial study during the opening session of the week-long National Conference of Catholic Bishops (NCCB) and the U.S. Catholic Conference (USCC). On Sunday the bishops will try to collect $50 million from parishioners for the campaign for human development. The money is earmarked to fight poverty.

Joseph O'Donoghue, executive director of the Roman Catholic laymen's group, said at a news conference that reluctance of church leaders to disclose fully the finances of the dioceses across the nation "verges on major scandal." O'Donoghue estimated the church's wealth in the United States at $45 billion.

"We're always taking, taking, taking and never giving," he said. "How often can we go to the pews when we hold larger and larger assets."

"NAL does not question the honesty of church leaders," the organization said in a letter to the bishops. "But we are concerned that the American Catholic church is unnecessarily tarnished by a lack of clarity in financial matters."

The NAL financial report on the church was said to have been compiled by more than 100 parishoners over three months.

Film Slated At Illinois Ave. Church

A new dramatic film, "Like A Mighty Army", the down-to-earth true story of a man in tune with his times, will be shown at Illinois Ave. General Baptist Church Sunday at 7:15 p.m.

The social revolution among young people today is frightening in many of its aspects. Even the church is being seriously questioned as to its existence and activity. Instead of responding with bewilderment and fear, a handful of people in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., led by their dynamic young minister, Rev. James Kennedy, committed themselves to the principle of providing life-changing answers for the people of their community.

In 9 short years the Coral Ridge Church has become one of the fastest growing congregations in the world, growing from 17 to more than 2,000 members and needing 3 Sunday morning services to handle the crowds.

This exciting true story has been made into the film, "Like A Mighty Army" by Gospel Films, Inc., of Muskegon, Mich. Starring in the role of Dr. Kennedy is Chris Robinson who is best known for his role as an Air Force Sergeant in the television series, "Twelve O'clock High'..

"Like A Mighty Army", an inspirational film for the family is the latest release of Gospel Films, Inc., producers of "The Tony Fontane Story'., "Flip Side'. and "A Four Letter Word".

Graham Says World Moving Toward Greatest War Ever

LONDON (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham told British industrialists, lawmakers and clergymen that the world is building up to "the greatest war in history".

Graham said at a breakfast meeting in a West End hotel: "Unless there is a religious revival in the next 10 years, freedom will not survive.

"The United States is heading straight into the arms of a dictatorship unless the revival expands."

Antismog Test May Be Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — A decision appears imminent on a drive by 17 states to have the Supreme Court consider their suit charging the major auto manufacturers with conspiring to delay the development of antismog devices.

The states want the court to order General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors to equip all their cars built since 1953 with devices that would cut down the 67.3 million tons of carbon monoxide released annually from auto exhausts.

That would mean going to work on an estimated 85 to 100 million used cars. Even if the court agrees to consider the matter, such an order is a long way off, however. First the 17 states, headed by Washington, must persuade the justices the Supreme Court is the only suitable forum to settle the suit swiftly.

Then the states would have to win their argument that the four manufacturers are guilty of conspiracy in violation of the Sherman antitrust Act.

Frederic C. Tausend, a special assistant attorney general for Washington state, seemed hopeful in a telephone interview that the court would at least consider the suit.

If the states are turned down, Tausend said, they will consider filing the same kind of joint suit in a federal district court.

Attorneys for GM, Chrysler, Ford, American Motors and a fifth defendant, the Automobile Manufacturers Association, argue the Supreme Court is the wrong place for the kind of complex trial that would be required.

The states say, however, a final decision could take 10 years to reach if suits had to make their way up through several federal courts.

Though this suit does not seek damages, 17 damage suits have been filed in courts across the country by parties ranging from the states of New York and Minnesota to an apricot farmer in California. Last September, federal judge Manuel L. Real of Los Angeles agreed to hold a hearing on the possibility of combining these suits.

The states filed their motion for Supreme Court consideration August 5. The defendants replied October 3. The court could issue its decision on whether to hold a hearing next Monday, just before beginning a two-week recess.

In the closing days of the Johnson administration the Justice Department charged the four auto makers and their association with conspiracy.

The government, however, dropped the case under the Nixon administration but a consent decree restrained the defendants from any future conspiracy without pressing for a judgment on any past violations and without the auto makers admitting any guilt.

This did not prevent the states or individuals from pushing ahead with their own lawsuits. The complaint to the Supreme Court was signed by Washington, Illinois, Arizona, Colorado, Hawaii, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, North Dakota and West Virginia.

Be resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: SECTION 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. SECTION 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. SECTION 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $5.30 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. SECTION 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the city of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expediture therefrom to pay for the improvement. SECTION 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. ## Job Corps Site Rejected By Hearnes

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has turned down the Labor Department's selection of a West Delmar avenue site in St. Louis for a Job Corps training center.

He said the location "is in an area statistically ranking as one of the highest crime districts in the entire St. Louis metropolitan area.

"It is difficult to understand how exposure to such an environment can be conducive to proper training of youngsters already burdened with similar problems, many of a similar nature."

In a letter to J. D. Hodgson, secretary of labor, the Missouri governor said "it is my earnest hope that you will continue to seek a more appropriate location in the St. Louis area which will provide this much needed service to our young prople."

It was the second time Hearnes had used his veto on a training center site. Last spring when the citizens of Bridgeton, Mo., protested against the center's location there the governor vetoed the plan. Finally, in midsummer the Labor Department dropped its lease on a hotel building in Bridgeton.

In his letter today, Hearnes said "a minor factor in our determiniation is the fact that you have not, as previously promised by your representatives, obtained the endorsement and support of the community involved.

"While Mayor (A. J.) Cervantes has given his approval to this locationl we find serious objections raised at the 'grass roots' level among individuals, neighborhood organizations, various committee people and aldermen affected.

"These objections cross party lines and are completely bipartisan in nature."

Pitchers Ron Klimkowski and Rob Gardner and third baseman John Ellis are with Ponce, pitcher Mike Kekich is with Frank Robinson's Santurce team and outfielder Ron Woods is with Mayaguez.

THE PEN HAS COME A LONG WAY' BABY
By TOM HOWARD

Every day students, businessmen, clerks and practically every human being make us of a small and indispensable device without realizing it has a history reaching back beyond the Stone Age. That device is the pen.

It is an odd fact that world's oldest and newest writing instruments should both be made of wood. The first was probably a charred stick, used by some ape-featured caveman to sketch animal pictures on the walls of his dwelling. The newest is a line of pens and pencils with barrels made of rosewood and walnut.

Early Egyptians, to whom hieroglyphics made sense, wrote on papyrus, leather or parchment with pens or brushes made from reeds. Their ink was usually water, colored with berries or leaves. It tended to fade quickly, as did Egyptian literature.

The Summerians in Mesopotamia, meanwhile, learned to communicate ideas by means of cuneiforms. These were wedge-shaped marks made on a clay tablet with a sharp bone or metal sytlus pen. This made for slow writing, and even slower reading.

In the seventh century a breakthrough took place in the history of letters. Some unsung genuis --perhaps a poultry farmer with a literary bent --discovered that a feather plucked from the wing of a goose made an admirable writing instrument. Finally, in the early 1800's the world's goose population got a reprieve. Pens made of steel appeared on the scene.

When fountain pens first came on the English market in 1835, they lived up to their name by splashing ink in all directions. But they worked.

The first workable ballpoint pen was shown in 1896, but it was not until after World War II that ball points were marketed commercially.

Now a 60-year-old company has completed the cycle by introducing matched pens and pencils with slim wooden barrels. Their beauty and utility would surely have astounded the world's first scribe as he labored in his cave. We wonder if some young genius will top it someday. Nothing stands still.

Mayhem on Coin Machine Taboo

by Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Norton, dispatched by his wife to a laundromat, ran into an immediate conflict. He put a quarter into a change making machine and nothing came out. Consequently, he began to shake, at first gently and then more and more violently.

When that proved fruitless, Norton's rage began to mount and he began to throw rights and lefts at the machine's solar plexus with his clenched fists. And, while the abusive language that accompanied the blows might have made the machine turn red, nothing seemed to make it turn loose the change.

Consequently, totally frustrated, Norton picked up a heavy oil drum that was used in the laundromat as a waste basket and began banging it against the unyielding machine.

Finally, the noise of the battle attracted the attention of two passing policemen who promptly arrested Norton for maliciously injuring personal property.

"If we hadn't stopped him," the officers told the judge, "it would have been a case of homicide. He would have killed that machine."

"It had it coming," was Norton's answer. "It tried to beat me out of a quarter. In trying to get back my money, from that mechanical bandit, I only did what any other victim would have done under the circumstances.

"Beside I didn't cause it any bodily injury, just a slight dent."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict outraged Norton of maliciously injuring personal property?

This is how the judge rules: YES! The judge held, in effect, that even if Norton's motive was to jar loose his money, a person cannot willfully damage a coin machine because it fails to perform as expected.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

As an eagle that stirreth up her nest, that fluttereth over her young, he spread abroad his wings, he took them, he bare them on his pinions. (Deuteronomy 32:11, AV)

PRAYER: Our Father, sustain us when we are faced with the inevitable. May we remind ourselves that trouble is sure to come, but that Thy strength is more than adequate to keep us from falling. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Charles Carroll of Carrollton, Md., who died in 1832 at the age of 95, was the last surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Landmark In Dexter Comes Down

DEXTER--Another old Dexter landmark is coming down, forever lost from the Dexter scene.

It's the big, towering two-story Bert Pruitt home.

It is located at the corner of Mulberry and Miller streets.

But it hasn't always been there.

In its more than a half-century of existence it has moved, but not far.

Old-timers, and not-so-old timers remember it as the "old Dr. Slayton home", and it was originally built right where the Citizens Bank now stands.

But, about 1954, when the Citizens Bank made plans for its present building, the home was moved - a few yards to the west, from the southeast corner of the lot to the, southwest corner of the same block.

"Pug" Buchanan, who has torn down more homes than he can remember, is at work on this one, too.

And it's quite a job, for this home was built to stand the ravages of time, and it withstood them well.

"There's some fine old material in this old house," Buchanan said this week as he worked at the slow process of removing the Dexter landmark.

"Back in those day, they built things to last, and there's some real material in this house," he added.

Such a house, built today, would be costly. The house is trimmed with a liberal supply of "ginger-bread, littled cornices and trim that were the fad, back in those days in fine homes.

The ceilings are high, the windows large. A big front porch greeted the visitors, andmust have been an inviting sight, back in those leisurely days of long ago.

The home was originally built by Dr. Slayton, M.D., a physician here for many years, long since deceased. Later, it became the property of the Pruitt Family and has been known in later years as "the Pruitt home".

But time, and the growing business district, has finally caught up with the home, as it has with other old landmark homes in Dexter and elsewhere.

Reaction Favorable To Road Plans

JEFFERSON CITY, MO. — Legislative leaders were generally favorable in their reaction Wednesday to an ambitious 12-year- highway construction program, to be financed by a 2-cent increase in the gasoline tax and increases in motor vehicle and driver license fees.

Sen. J. F. Patterson (Dem.) of Caruthersville, president pro tem of the Senate, said "This appears to be about the best program we could come up with."

He said he thinks the state could make up the high cost of interest on a $400 million road building bond issue proposed by the commission by accelerating construction and avoiding inflationary costs in the future.

Speaker James D. Godfrey of the Missouri House of the Missouri House of Representatives was not optimistic about chances for voter approval of the bond issue, but said "I feel we have to do something about our roads."

Godfrey said he would support an increase of one or two cents in the gasoline tax. He said the proposed fee increases for motor vehicle registration "caught me by surprise."

The program, which would involve a $400 million bond issue being submitted to voters, would cost $1.4 billion and add about 1,850 miles of divided highways to Missouri's highway system.

In the St. Louis area, the commission said it would be able to extend several major routes not now included in its program.

These include work on portions of Woods Mill Road, the Page Avenue and Brown Road extensions, along with additional work on Highway 40, Interstate 44 and 255.

The Commission reported unanimous approval of the plan, which has been under consideration since Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' toll road amendment went down to defeat by 200,000 votes in the August primary election. The commission named a subcommittee headed by Roger Linsin of St. Louis to determine reaction around the state to a possible increase in the gasoline tax.

Voters of Missouri would be asked to approve a $400 million bond issue, but the Legislature could increase the gasoline tax and highway user fees without a vote of the people.

The commission called its new plan an "intercity- inter-regional system" and said it also would speed up the circumferential and internal highway construction in metropolitan areas.

The overall cost increase in user fees would mean about $22 per year for each car owner, the commission said.

Instead of paying registration fees according to the horsepower rating of vehicles, every car owner would pay a flat $25 per year for each vehicle license.

There would be in addition increases in truck registration fees, in the cost of driver licenses and in fees for new or duplicate titles.

The plan is similar to one the Highway Department proposed to the last regular session of the Missouri Legislature, but it was dropped in favor of the governor's constitutional amendment to allow pledging of gasoline ta tax to retire revenue bonds issued to build toll roads.

But the voters didn't like that idea and the Highway Commission then turned to the plan unveiled Wednesday.

"To meet the immediate needs on our state system will cost more than a billion dollars," the commission said in announcing the plan.

My Lai Testimony Continues

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Ronald L. Haeberle, former Army combat photographer, testified today at the court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., that he saw American GIs fire at 50 to 75 Vietnamese civilians on the south side of the village of My Lai.

Haeberle, 28, who made pictures he said were of Vietnamese civilians slain at My Lai on March 16, 1968, said he saw people trying to get up and run.

"They just fell down," he said.

Calley, 27, is charged with the premeditated murder of 102 Vietnamese civilians.

Haeberle said he saw a woman holding a small child trying to run.

Capt. Aubrey Daniel, chief Army prosecutor, asked: "Did you see any people left standing when the firing was over?"

"No, I didn't see anyone," Haeberle replied.

The stocky, dark haired, sideburned former sergeant, who was in Calley's company in the My Lai assault, was asked how many persons were in the group of Vietnamese he saw south of the village.

"Seems like quite a large group of people. I estimate 50-75. I noticed these people squatting in a Vietnamese position. I looked over again and about three people were walking away.

"I heard firing and I looked over to the right and I saw people trying to get up and run. They just fell down."

Daniel asked Haeberle if he could identify the type of firing he heard.

"It was rapid fire, it appeared to be machine-gun fire."

He testified that at first there were five soldiers standing in front of the Vietnamese people.

"Then I saw three of the GIs walking off into the distance. That's when I heard the automatic fire."

Q. Where was the firing coming from?

A. From one of the soldiers.

Q. Did you see any people left standing when the firing was over?

Earlier Roger Alaux Jr., a former artillery lieutenant in the assault on My Lai, testified on cross-examination that he witnessed no enemy fire on the hamlet.

Alaux, now a student at the University of Arizona, also said he called in no artillery fire on the village and that artillery damage he observed lay not in the village itself, but in rice paddies to the south.

Political Media Manager Hails Nixon Campaigning

WASHINGTON (AP) — A political media manager says the administration's law and order drive in the midterm elections pursued a formula he deems vital for success: "Create a threat and make your candidate be the savior."

"Brilliantly executed," said Gayle Essary of the campaigning by President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Essary, of Austin, Tex., disputed in a telephone interview Friday the claim of Democratic image-maker Charles Guggenheim that the GOP suffered a voter backlash stirred by Nixon.

"You can't appeal to people on a rational level," Essary asserted.

Nixon and Agnew "were creating a threat to the security of the individual which he could feel and see and experience. Then, they presented their candidates as being the saviors," said Essary.

Essary, who handled two proadministration candidates in losing senatorial campaigns, is associated with the Institute for Motivational Sciences, which, he said, believes that elections are decided on the basis of emotional appeal rather than ideology.

The institute uses a sociological approach based in large part on studies of behavior patterns of rodents and primates, said Essary. Its campaigns ignore the 13 per cent of the population classified as "alphas" and "betas"—those who have achieved leadership positions and those seeking them—and aim instead at the 80 per cent classified as "gammas."

"The gammas are what has been called the great silent majority," Essary said, "and Mr. Agnew is the head gamma."

Essary professed "violent exception" to the view of Guggenheim, who said last week he felt the administration's campaigning stirred a backlash, particularly Nixon's speech at Phoenix, ception" to the view of Guggenheim, who said last week he felt the administration's campaigning stirred a backlash, particularly Nixon's speech at Phoenix, Ariz., which was televised nationwide as the Republicans' Election Eve appeal.

"People thought it was a hohum election," Essary said. "Had the President tried to create a calming influence it wouldn't have turned out the record vote." On balance, he added, this helped the Republicans, although it may campaigns for Sen. Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut, an independent, and Republican John Danforth of Missouri. Although both lost, they polled larger votes than anticipated in contests won by Republican Lowell P. Weicker Jr. and Democratic Sen. Stuart Symington.

Essary said Nixon's lowkeyed, televised speech from Anaheim, Calif., the Friday night before the election was extremely effective.

Although he didn't see the Election Eve telecast, which was marred by a fuzzy picture and scratchy soundtrack, Essary said, "The fact that it didn't work out has nothing to do with the correctness of the strategy."

Marshal Choice at Morehouse Clouded

MOREHOUSE — A man approved for the city marshal's job Thursday night may never serve because he is on federal parole stemming from a July 12, 1968, conviction under the Dyer act involving interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle.

Mayor Charley Neal, when advised that James Cooper Green Jr., 24, of 730 Matthews Street, Sikeston, is on parole, said this morning, "I was going to get around to it (making a check on Green's record) after a while. I wouldn't be in favor of someone who had been in trouble."

Federal Parole Officer Robert Lanzeni of St. Louis said Green, who formerly worked at the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston, is on parole from the western district of Tennessee.

Because of this, Lanzeni said, Green cannot possess firearms and doubs "if he would qualify" to serve as city marshal.

Hal Hunter Jr., prosecuting attorney of New Madrid County, said he believes city officials have to be qualified voters, and Green would not be a qualified voter if convicted of a felony, Hunter said.

"I think they (Morehouse city officials) need to correct that," Hunter said. "Anybody who has been convicted of a felony has lost his right to vote."

Mayor Neal said he gives the responsibility of investigating backgrounds of the person hired as city marshal to the aldermen. Neal added, however, "We are going to ask around about him.'.

"I will have to talk to an attorney,'. Mayor Neal said.

Green was approved during a meeting of the Town board Thursday night. The board deliberated two hours and considered more than six candidates for the position before approving Green.

The board was deadlocked with Alderman Quitman Dill made the motion that Green be hired. Green was present at the meeting. It took more than 30 minutes for Dill to get his motion seconded. This was done by Alderman Woodrow Bolen, who said he was reluctant to second the motion because he was afraid the four aldermen would split and he didn't want Mayor Neal to "be able to vote and break a tie."

James C. Green

Green was approved with votes from Bolen, Dill and John Eaker, with Edward Eaker voting no because he wanted to hire a resident of the city.

Alderman Bolen said this morning, after being advised of the situation, "I don't think we need him (green) if it is like that." Bolen said he would favor having another meeting.

"We can't go like that," Bolen said, meaning the situation needs changing.

Alderman Dill agreed with Bolen ',that something will have to be done."

In last night's meeting the board and Mayor Neal agreed they wanted a man who still serve full- time.

"We've had enough of part time, half time, and no time out-of- town boys," Mayor Neal said. "The people are due a full-time man."

Green was hired because of experience, qualifications, and most of all, he will be a full-time marshal, Neal commented prior to learning Green was on federal parole.

Later Neal said he had checked with probation officer Lanzeni and it is definite that Green can't serve as city marshal. Mayor Neal has called another board meeting for Monday night.

"I left it up to the board of alderman. They just didn't talk to him close enough," Mayor Neal said.

Mayor Neal said deputies Harold Tarrants and Buddy McCain will serve until Monday to "control the town."

The city marshal's position has been open since Monday. This was one day after Raymond Lawrence, who resigned as Marshal Monday, was arrested on a felony charge in Scott County. He is charged with stealing $600 from the trunk of a car belonging to a man he had arrested in Sikeston Saturday night.

Green had not been sworn in as marshal. His duties were to begin when he moved to Morehouse.

Margin for Red China Shy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Red China edged closer to a seat in the United Nations today when the General Assembly gave it a majority vote for the first time.

It failed only because the 127nation assembly had approved earlier a U.S.-backed resolution declaring China representation to be an "important question," requiring a two-thirds majority.

Fifty-one nations voted in favor of seating the Peking government, with 49 against and 25 abstaining. This amounted to 51 per cent of those present and voting, or 15 percentage points short of approval.

The closest previous vote was in 1965, when Peking gained a 47-47 tie. Last year the vote was 48 in favor and 56 against—a 46 per cent showing.

Peking's showing this year came mainly because it gained five new supporters while nine countries switched from opposition to abstention.

The new supporters were Austria, Canada, Chile, Equatorial Guinea and Italy. Two previous Peking supporters—Cambodia and Maritius—switched from "yes" to "no," but this was not enough to offset the wholesale switching from anti-Peking to abstention.

The key to the assembly's vote was the continued coupling of Peking's bid with a demand for the expulsion of the Chinese Nationalists. During the debate a substantial majority favored Red China's seating, but not at the cost of expelling the Nationalist government.

The United States was among those shifting emphasis to the expulsion issue rather than the attacks on Red China and its qualifications for a seat in the world organization.

The vote on the "important question" resolution was 66 in favor, 52 against and 7 abstaining. Some delegates expressed doubts about supporting this idea in the future if Peking should attain a majority.

Three abstainers in 1969, Canada, Italy and Equatorial Guinea, have established diplomatic relations with Peking this year. Chile, which also abstained last year, switched to support of Peking's candidacy after the election of a Marxist president recently.

On the other hand, the Chinese Communists lost Cambodia's support because they gave refuge to the ousted Cambodian chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, and allowed him to set up a government in exile in Peking. And Mauritius, which voted for Peking in 1969, announced this week that it would vote no this year. Ambassador Radha Krishna Ramphul told the assembly that his government still favored Peking but not to the extent of ousting the Chinese Nationalists, which the resolution introduced by Peking's backers called for.

Nationalist Chinese Ambassador Liu Chieh closed the debate Thursday. He challenged the Communists to accept Saudi Arabia's proposal for a plebiscite on the mainland and said his government would abide by the results of such a vote. Liu said, however, that he thought the Reds would reject any such idea.

Hard-Fought Farm Bill in Nixon Hands

WASHINGTON (AP) president Nixon has on his desk today a favored $3.5 billion farm bill which sets for the first time a limit on the subsidies paid major growers for not producing.

The measure passed the Senate 48 to 35 Thursday after a lengthy and stormy fight in which opponents said the bill would cost farmers billions of dollars in income.

The bill, which lays down federal policy on farm subsidy and farm support programs over the next three years, won praise from Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin.

"It will give farmers an opportunity to take greater advantage of shifts in market demands from commodity to commodity by moving away from fixed crop acreages toward greater leeway in cropplantings," he said.

The bill limits subsidies to $55,000 on each crop of wheat, cotton, corn and other feed grain lands held from production. Senate opponents sought a $20,000 limit. There was no limit under past laws.

During the House- Senate conference meetings House members refused to budge from administration-backed provisions of the measure. Three senators walked out of the session and refused to sign the conference report, among them Sen. Stuart Symington.

The Missouri Democrat Thursday ridiculed the conference-reported bill as "both unfair and inadequate and . . . a' bill which is certain to lower farm income."

"Farmers especially resent these incredible efforts by Secretary of Agricutlure Hardin to junk the parity concept in connection with price supports and loans," he said.

Symington was disturbed over House conference members' refusal to go along with Senate language setting price supports for corn at $1.35 per bushel or 75 per cent of parity-whichever was higher.

Instead, the conference dropped the figure to 70 per cent for two years and gave the secretary the authority to lower it to 68 per cent in 1973.

Southern opponents, including Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., predicted disaster for cotten farmers. He said the bill would encourage overproduction and an eventual order from the Agriculture Department to drastically reduce the amount of acreage in production.

The old law allows cotton farmers to produce on 16.3 million acres of land. The new bill reduces that figure to 11.3 million acres.

Other provisions of the bill include extension of both the Food for Peace and wool support programs.

Charles Manson Says 'I've Killed No One'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles Manson in a surprise move took the stand at the Sharon Tate murder trial today and said: "I've killed no one and I've ordered no one to be killed.'

Then he added: "I have one law that I live by. It's that I don't snitch."

In an emotional but low-keyed delivery, the central figure in the complex case said over the objection of his attorney: "You people put importance on your lives. My life has never been important to anyone...If you put me in the penitentiary, hat means nothing... I like it there because I like myself."

Manson's sudden appearance on the stand came after a dispute in which his three women co-defendants said they intended to confess.

The four are charged with murdering Miss Tate and six others.

The women insisted Thursday on testifying against the advice of their attorneys and at today's session the judge asked them to take the stand and tell their stories in narrative form in the absence of the jury, so any inadmissible comments would not reach the jury's ears.

At that defendant Susan Atkins, 22, arose and said: "It's for the jury's ears. They're the ones that hold my life in their hands." The other two indicated they felt the same way.

In the midst of their arguments Manson, chieftan of a hippie style clan, arose and asked to testify. His attorney objected loudly.

Attorney Paul Fitzgerald, leader of the four-lawyer team, told newsmen before the chambers session there were five possibilities:

1. The judge could jail the attorneys for contempt for their refusal.

2. He could relieve present attorneys and appoint new ones willing to ask questions.

3. He could tell the women to simply give narrative statements, then he cross-examined.

4. The judge could ask questions prepared by the women.

5. He could allow the defendants to act as their own attorneys, a move deemed unlikely.

Fitzgerald said all possibilities hold legal complications that could lead later to motions for reverisble error. He said the judge had indicated he would take as long as necessary to resolve the problem.

The women all are members of Charles Manson's hippie-style family.

Fitzgerald called the surprise decision to rest the case Thursday a drastic effort to thwart the women's determination to speak out "the truth."

The Los Angeles Times reported today that the three women were prepared to confess from the witness stand. The newspaper said attorneys for the women told the judge in a secret session of their clients' wish to confess.

Manson, who had expressed no desire to take the stand himself, sat silent through Thursday's dramatic events which began with all four attorneys resting their case. The women then arose and insisted on being heard, and the judge ruled they had a constitutional right to testify.

Miss Atkins, modishly attired in a royal blue pants suit, took the stand briefly but was balked when her attorney refused to question her about the case. The two other women's lawyers said they would refuse also.

"We can go to jail for contempt of court or we can be relieved as attorneys in this case," said Fitzgerald after a conference in the judge's chambers. "He's considering both."

Crismon Indicted On Nine Counts

ST. LOUIS (AP)—An indictment alleging nine counts of bank fraud was returned by a federal grand jury Thursday against James B. Crismon, former president of the defunct First State bank of Bonne Terre.

The indictment alleged violations involving bad checks and misuse and misappropriation of more than $600,000 in bank funds.

Crismon already had been charged by federal and state officials with embezzlement and fraud in the bank's operations. The indictment supersedes the earlier federal charges involving two counts of allegedly fraudulent loans.

Crismon resigned as president of the Bonne Terre bank shortly before it was closed by State Finance Commissioner C. W. Culley Aug. 24 because of questionable loans.

The bank reopened a short time later under a new name and new management.

Meanwhile, other grand juries in Farmington, Jefferson City and Clayton launched inquiries into the bank's operations, an alleged attempt to bribe Culley to refrain from closing the bank and of a cash payment to State Treasurer William Robinson in exchange for deposit of state fundsin the Bonne Terre bank.

Robinson acknowledged receiving $2,500 from Crismon but said the money was a campaign contribution. That aspect of the case is being looked into by a Cole County Grand Jury in Jefferson City.

A St. Louis County Grand Jury sitting at Clayton is investigating the reported bribe attempt as well as dealings involving Robinson.

Two of the nine counts of the indictment involve false loans totaling $125,000 made to persons who did not receive the money. Crismon allegedly converted the money to his own use.

Green Light for Air Fare Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board approved today air fare adjustments expected to increase airline annual revenues by at least $80 million.

The board said that as the airlines make the proper filings, they will be permitted to:

1. Raise first class fares from 25 per cent above the coach level to 30 per cent above coach. This increase alone should add $40 million to airline revenues over a one-year period, industry sources said.

2. Eliminate Discover America discount fares on trips of less than 1,500 miles.

3. Reduce the Discover America round trip excursion fare discount of 20 per cent, to one of 15 per cent, during the summer-time peak travel period.

4. Eliminate the family fare to Florida during the winter season of heavy tourist traffic to and from that resort area.

5. Increase night coach fares from 75 per cent of the day coach fare to 80 per cent.

6. Increase youth standby fares, now 50 per cent of the coach fare on some airlines, to 66 2-3 per cent, a level adopted many months ago by some airlines.

The Board approved proposals already before it, to raise first class fares 5 per cent, to go into effect on Braniff Airways immediately, Eastern Air Lines next Monday, National Airlines Dec. 7 and Northeast Airlines Dec. 12.

The blackout from Dec. 1 through April 30 on family fares to Florida will go into effect on Eastern, National, Northeast and United Air Lines.

The 5 per cent slash in the Discover America fare discount will be effective on American from June 15 through Sept. 15.

Trade Bill Faces Trouble in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A quota-setting trade bill that would throw up Congress's most formidable new barriers against foreign goods since 1930 has passed the House, but Senate approval is in doubt.

Opponents said the controversial bill to limit textile and shoe imports would touch off a world trade war. Backers said it would protect threatened U.S. industries and jobs.

It passed the House 215 to 165 Thursday night with trade lobbyists filling the galleries.

Nixon administration efforts to cut the bill back to the President's request for textile quotas only—plus a tax incentive to boost U.S. exports—didn't even come to a vote.

But administration supporters said Nixon will make no decision on whether to veto the bill until he sees how it comes out of Congress.

Senate opponents led by Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., have hinted they will filibuster if necessary to prevent a similar trade package from even being considered there.

Opponents concentrated their attack, during two days of debate, on predictions the quotas would bring trade-war retaliation from the countries affected—particularly Japan and the European Common Market—and would drive up U.S. prices by protecting American goods from cheaper foreign competitors.

"The Japanese would rather have the textile market they can get in the United States than retaliate," he said.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

America lives by its transportation system.

Food must move from the farms to the cities. Coal must move from the mines to the power companies and steel mills. Steel must move from the mills to factories. And finished products must move from factories to consumers.

Without the smooth functioning of its transportation system, American commerce would soon cease. Millions would be thrown out of work.

America needs all of its transportation.

But there is one mode it depends on above all others– the railroads.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe underscored this recently when he said: "No other modes of transportation singly or in combination could conceivably fulfill the role of the railroads."

It has been estimated that, even with 30 days' preparation in the event of a nationwide rail shutdown, the other modes would be able to absorb only a small fraction of the railroads' freight business.

The railroads move a fleet of 1.8 million freight cars with a carrying capacity of 118 million tons.

In 1969,, they hauled 780 billion ton- miles of freight -- or nearly 4,000 ton- miles for every man, woman and child in the country.

Thus, the railroads were responsible for transporting about 41 percent of the country's intercity tonnage-- nearly twice as much as any other mode.

As important-- and revealing -- as these statistics are, they don't show the country's true dependence on railroads.

For ordinary necessities like water, electricity, paper, canned and frozen foods and bread, we depend on the railroads.

Its no exaggeration to say that your next glass of pure water may be brought to you by train -- for it's the railroads that move most of the chemicals used in water purification.

In a sense, electricity, too, is brought by the railroads. They move hundreds of millions of tons of coal every year -- coal that's used to provide electric lights to 80 million Americans.

As for food -- that, too, is probably brought to you by train. Almost all the canned and frozen foods moves by railroad, and so does much of the wheat needed for bread. Almost half of our meat and dairy products comes by train as well.

Besides these necessities, railroads deliver something else to America -- jobs, and a lot of them.

Not alone for the nearly 600,000 people who work on the railroads.

But also for thousands of employes in allied industries.

And the jobs of millions of others depend on efficient distribution of their products by railroads.

These include miners-- more of whose coal, metallic ores and other minerals move by rail than by any other mode.

And cotton producers -- who depend on trains to move over 73 percent of their crop to textile mills.

As recently found by America's Sound Transportation Review Organization (ASTRO), railroads move:

.71 percent of household appliances.
.76 percent of automobiles and automobile parts.
.78 percent of lumber and wood.
.40 percent of furniture.
.63 percent of chemicals.
.and 68 per cent of primary metal products.

Railroads are also an essential component of the national defense system, moving nearly 40 percent of the Defense Department's freight - one third of which it's impossible to transport any other way.

America's railroads. Who needs them? You do. We all do.

A KILLING HANDICAP

Welfare, as everyone knows, is bankrupting communities all over the nation -- and no one seems to be able to do anything about it. Some figures from a state welfare office in Massachusetts explain, at least in part, why the problem of welfare is getting out of control. According to the figures, a family of four on the Aid for Dependent Children program in Massachusetts enjoys a standard of living $1,275 a year higher than a family of the same size supported by an average wage earner. Including fringe benefits -- free medical and dental care, tax relief, subsidized rent and mortgage payments, special insurace breaks– the family of four on welfare receives the equivalent of $7,671.55 a year. The average wage earner's family gets $6,396.00 a year. These figures from Massachusetts are very likely similar to figures for other states. No nation can live indefinitely under this kind of handicap and still maintain the productivity of its people -- or the initiative of the individual.

Yet, in all fairness to them, we can say in a large degree that today's teen-agers are what Congress made them. The old adage says that 'the devil makes work for idle hands,' and if anything created idle hands, passage into law of the inflationary minimum wage law has done more than its share, especially in the teen- age labor market. Now, I am not saying that a person should not be paid a living wage. I am saying that many, many teen-agers want jobs and would work for much less than a minimum wage, just to keep busy and make some spending money. But the minimum wage law... In effect... has closed job opportunities for most teen-agers."

The Food & Liquor Digest commented that drive in grocery buying may revolutionize food retailing in the future, according to a new Bank of America report. The report gives this description of the operation of a combination convenience store- gas station: "The customer pulls into one of the service islands at the gas station where a push- button panel is located near the pumps. By pushing product- labeled buttons from the driver's seat of her car, the shopper selects from over 100 convenience items pushing the 'total' button last. Her purchases are added up automatically, the order is bagged and delivered to her car by an attendant, and the entire purchase may be charged to a credit card." Such receptivity to innovation has keyed the success of the convenience store, the fastest growing segment of the food retailing industry.

AMERICAN PIECRUSTS. LSD AFTERMATH. DOES SCLC PAY?

War is hell if you are South Vietnamese. You fight the Viet Cong, the North Vietnamese, the Americans, the Russians, the Red Chinese, Averell and Cyrus. But it is the Americans you worry about the most because they act and talk like Bolsheviks; i.e., agreements are like piecrusts, made to be broken. That bombing cessation agreement said if the Communists so much as infiltrated the DMZ or shelled a city, then the Americans would bomb the North back to its ancestry. It is a puzzlement. The Reds did go into the DMZ. They shelled cities. They even massacred women and children in a village. Yet, no bombs fall on the North. And now, the Americans talk of another holiday truce- on top of the bombing halt for which no logical basis of agreement exists. The best you can do is send Vice- President Ky to Paris and hope he botches the talks and gives Ave and Cyrus massive cases of indigestion complicated by migraine headaches. Then the remedy would be obvious: bomb the North, Haiphong and all, and win the war.

Pregnant users of LSD in the nation's capital were scared stiff at the news: geneticist Dr. Cecil B. Jacobson had found a high incidence of brain and skull defects in the fetuses of LSD users. Of 14 cases of therapeutic abortions, four showed the defect. The rate for the defect was high — 28.5 per cent, compared to .43 per cent in normal and stillbirths. Dr. Jacobson, of George Washington University, said the evidence strongly implicates LSD as an abnormality- producing agent in humans. University of California geneticist Joshua Lederberg said that evidence that LSD is such an agent "is inconclusive."

The rich had all the ice they wanted all the year round, but the poor got most of theirs in winter.

In the newspaper cartoons an Englishman was a fellow who wore a top hat, a monocle and spats, and went around murmuring "Bah Jove."

It made you feel mysterious to eat in a Chinese restaurant, and it was almost a ritual requirement to say to somebody afterward, "you know, at the time it filled me up completely but an hour later I felt I hadn't eaten a thing."

A guy in the 1920's who wore sideburns and flapping pants was called a "cake eater." The girl he escorted wore rolled hose, short skirts and a studied look of vacuity, and was known as a "flapper."

Only the local filling station had the courage to give away free calendars with a nude girl on the cover.

After you found a steady job, you were expected to stay with it for the rest of your life. The general theory was that you should begin by sweeping out the place and end up running it.

Young ladies wore bigbrimmed hats in summer to protect their pale complexion from the sun's ravages. A tanned face made a firl feel rather common.

Anybody who dwelt outside hearing distance of a street car was known to vaudeville wits as a "hayseed," a "rube," or a "local yokel."

You could buy a hand-wound phonograph for what it costs you today to have a color television set repaired.

Most Americans lived by the courageous, give it another try philosophy once expressed by the late Mike Todd: "I've often been broke, but I've never been poor."

Those were the days—remember?

Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, today warned of extreme traffic dangers on every highway, county road and country lane during the deer hunting season, from November 14 through November 23.

"The State Conservation Commission advises that an estimated 160,000 tags will be sold to deer hunters this year," Hockaday noted. "These sportsmen will be traveling by motor vehicles to and from the hunting areas. I urge them to use extreme caution not only while on the highways , but as they hunt for deer."

The Patrol Superintendent called attention to the tragic traffic toll experienced last year during the hunting season. He noted that 50 persons lost their lives in Missouri traffic accidents from November 15 through November 24. All but ten of these traffic victims died in rural mishaps. He urged hunters, and all drivers, to be attentive, refrain from drinking before driving and to obey traffic regulations.

Colonel Hockaday then noted the following basic safety tips for hunters: 1. Don't carry a loaded rifle in the car. 2. Always be sure the rifle barrel and action are clear of obstruction. 3. Never climb a tree or fence with a loaded gun. 4. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger. 5. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.

"While 50 persons were killed in Missouri vehicular accidents last year during the deer season, three hunters were accidently shot and killed, and five others were wounded," The Colonel stated. "It behooves everyone, therefore, to use common sense and obey the rules both on and off the highway during the deer season."

WHAT ISN'T NEWS

The reporters who check the police blotters in Washington, D.C. tend to be a cut above those who draw such assignments in cities of comparable size across the country. Newspaper and wire - service editors have learned that only top - notch reporters can ferret out the ramifications of a crime story when national figures are involved.

But the establishment has found ways to mock and frustrate even the best reporters. A classic case has just come to light.

Back on August 26, while the Senate was debating the qualifications of Justice Abe Fortas to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, somebody looted the offices of his former law firm, in which his wife of cigar - smoking fame, Carolyn Agger Fortas, is still a partner.

Like every other woman that you know, Mrs. Fortas kept $22,160 in jewelry in the office safe. The records actually show that the stolen jewelry belonged to Justice and Mrs. Fortas, although precisely what items were his and hers isn't clear. What is clear is that the incident was kept from the press and the public at the time.

Justice Department spokesmen shuffle their feet in embarrassment and say, shucks, we thought the break - in might have been some way involved with the furor over Justice Fortas's nomination. Further than that, no comment.

The District of Columbia Police pooh-pooh that idea and disavow any evidence that other than robbery was involved, but do think that several persons participated since a safe that was looted was a giant 22 by 24 by 58 inches, which is a bit of poundage to wrestle around and break open.

Don't think for a moment that the authorities are making a full report on the August 26 event, however. In fact, the whole affair came to light in Toledo, Ohio, where a lawyer went into court to tell a Federal Judge how an inventory of the documents ransacked out of the hefty safe in Washington turned up some papers subpoenaed by the Justice Department, and which had earlier been reported destroyed. Your Honor, he said, those papers hadn't been destroyed at all; they were safe all the time in that safe that got robbed.

Reporters have lots of leads now. Sooner or later you'll get the August 26 news out of Washington, Toledo and perhaps other points.

MORE Civilian employment in the Executive Branch of the Federal government totaled 3,052,690 as of June 30, representing an increase of 83,999 — almost 4,000 per working day — during that month. The figure reflects increases in regular seasonal employment as well as temporary summer youth employment. Preliminary estimates are that the number of Federal full - time workers was cut by 63,000 in fiscal 1969 in agencies subject to the personnel ceiling provisions set by Congress last year, a cut partially offset by increases ( of about 25,000) in agencies not affected.

TIME TO GET WELL

The decade just passed has been called the "Sick Sixties." The reference probably is directed at some of the most obvious facets of the society of the Sixties, such as the drug culture, acid-rock "music," and the questionable level to which the arts have sunk. The sickness of the dropouts in our society is understandable. But when earnest, industrious, considerate citizens act against their best interests, or fail to act in their own interest, something has to be wrong with them.

Also, shortsightedness, ignorance, and apathy may cause citizens to allowtheir society to be destroyed by the worst, until they are rudely awakened. But while it is one thing to make mistakes when one is uniformed, misinformed, or mistaken, it is something else to continue on the same course when the error of one's ways becomes obvious.

So it is strange, indeed, that the good citizens of the United States, confronted with the evidence of what is causing the disruption of their society, continue to tolerate the disruptive forces, or that they continue to tolerate the elected officials, college administrators, and others who directly permit such goings-on.

It is time to replace administrators and regents who do not enforce the rules -- to recall representatives who do not represent – to demand that the law be carried out, with protection for the rights of minorities, but no privilege for their demands – to refuse re-entry to those who consort with the enemy in Havana, Algiers, and Hanoi. WASHINGTON--An undercover man has tipped off the Customs Bureau that the Weatherman are trying to steal germs from the bacteriological warfare center at Fort Detrick, Md., to contaminate a city water supply.

Their alleged aim is "to incapacitate a population by infection for seven to ten days."

The Weathermen are radical revolutionaries who seek to outrage the public by dramatic acts of violence they believe will create a repressive climate that will alienate nonviolent radicals. As the repression becomes more harsh, according to their plan, the alienation will increase until they have a violent basis for overthrowing the government.

Militant Weathermen, wearing football helmets and steel-toed boots, opened their campaign of violence in October, 1969, by going on a four-day rampage throught the streets of Chicago. Subsequently, they conducted a rash of bombings across the country.

The more outrageous the atrocity, the better it suits the Weathermen strategy. They were elated, for example, over the bizarre Sharon Tate killings. The Weathermen's fugitive queen, Bernardine Dohrn, told a war council happily: "Dig it! First they killed those pigs, then they ate dinner in the same room with them, then they even shovel a fork into a victim's stomach! Wild!"

The contamination of a city water supply, spreading infection to the whole population, is the sort of spectacular havoc that would appeal to the Weathermen. They hope to get the germ culture, the informant claimed, by blackmailing a homosexual lieutenant at Fort Detrick.

This column has copies of the informant's confidential reports to the Customs Bureau. The first report, dated November 3, tells of an approach from a drug pusher for "information on what kind of bacteria would be effective and would bypass the filtering system of a city and would incapacitate a population by infection for seven to ten days. BLACKMA "He stated to me that he was merely engaged in a discussion with some SDS Weathermen as to the possibility of this...He asked me to contact the (homosexual) officer I know there and set him up for a discussion, and mentioned the possibility of the use of black mail to induce the 'gay' officer in question to cooperate.

"It is necessary that this information be passed to G-2 military intelligence of the Department of the Army, as even the thought of such attempted theft from Detrick is staggering to imagine."

The drug pusher made a second approach a few days later. In a report dated November 11, the informant stated: "He (the pusher) suggested that I obtain pictures and records that could be used to blackmail this officer into furnishing information as to the nature and character of a BW weapon that (1) is capable of felling by infection, but not fatal infection, the entire population of a large city for seven to ten days, and (2) would pass through the water filtering plant of a large city and go directly into the homes of the population."

Two days later, the informant submitted another report, declaring: "....(the pusher) stated that in addition to the germ cultures previously described, that he also wanted a quantity of nerve gas similar to Mace but more powerful that will absolutely put out of consciousness a large number of people at one time, but one that will not be fatal.

"He state that he was not interested in the types used to frighten cats and mice in recent tests..He stated that he has been trained to procure the BW material for over a year, and he has interested parties that will purchase the right thing for a lot of money."

Footnote: The Weatherman take their nickname from their revolutionary manifesto entitled, "You Don't Need a Weatherman to Know Which Way the Wind Blows." Their national directorate is called the "Weather Bureau," and local chapters are known as collectives.

HICKEL'S PICKLE

Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel has gained national acclaim for standing up to the White House. But he quietly backed down when the White House brought pressure on him to cancel a national pollution conference he had scheduled for this fall.

The conference was set up to present four days of seminars, with commercial exhibits featuring anti-pollution equipment and services. But John Ehrlichman, the White House czar over domestic affairs, was piqued at Hickel for speaking out on President Nixon's isolation from youth.

Ehrichman's aides began to carp and criticize behind the scenes against the pollution conference. Health, Education, and Welfare officials, who were miffed at Hickel for stealing the anti-pollution spotlight away from them, joined in then the sniping. They complained petulantly that it was a conflict to have private exhibitors at a goverment anti-pollution pwowow.

Wearily, Wally Hickel, already in the presidential doghouse for his outspokenness, decided he couldn't fight the White House at every turn So he regretfully canceled the conference. He made up a phony excuse, saying his office would be too busy setting up a new enviromental agency to carry on with the conference.

But the Interior Department had already contracted out the planning work to two private firms, Courtesy Associates and Ralph Whitner & Co. This column has now obtained the Interior letter confirming that they will be paid $65,823 on the cancelled contract.

The original plan was to pay the cost with registration fees and charges to the exhibitors. But these funds, of course, are not now available. The money to pay off the contractors willnot come from the White House, for from HEW, or even from Hickel's funds. Instead, the under-funded pollution fighters themselves–the Federal Water Quality Administration--will have to pay the entire $65,823.

NO BENEFITS NEEDED

Republican insiders are passing the word that the reason the gravely ailing Sen. Karl Mundt, R—S.D., won't resign is that his wife, Mary, would be deprived of special benefits for the widow of a Senator who dies in office.

Sen. Mundt has been under pressure from the GOP to step down immediately so that his successor could be appointed by the present Republican governor of South Dakota, who will be replaced in January by a Democrat.

Mrs. Mundt, however, told this colum that she was unaware of any extra benefits for widows of sitting Senators and would not accept them if they were offered.

"I'm not interested in money. I didn't know there were any benefits and I wouldn't want them. We can take care of ourselves," she said.

EXCLUSIVE: Nixon, angered by Wage-Price Rocketing, Plans to Zero in on Construction Field First

WASHINGTON: -- Love of money may be the root of all evil but this inflation is alienating the affection. And a trouble, puzzled and frustrated President Nixon plans to do something about it -- and soon, indeed.

In some fashion the President shortly will attempt to contain wages and prices.

There will be no freeze. There will be no ceiling on incomes. There will be no jawboning. But there will be some moves, with all the power and options the government has, to slow the escalator, top the ceiling, make the dollar worth something.

Just how? Well, there's a sharp, albeit still soft-tone battles inside what is called the White House -- which includes the Executive Office Building. And Federal Reserve Board Chairman, Arthur Burns, has not included himself out -- to quote from one of Sam Goldwyn's sagest of psalms.

The battle began several weeks before Election Day. It thundered one morning when insiders realized that the big campaign issue -- justifiably so -- was the economy, jobs, pockets of recession, geographic depression, worries in Washington and California over aerospace and in Boston over electronics.

At one point the President told his advisers that he wanted the economy to be so revived that there would be only four per cent unemployment by July 1, 1972. Those who agreed with his desire to open the economy found themselves stalked by the spectre of inflation which some on the inside believed they had smashed.

Others, including chairman Arthur Burns from afar, cautioned that open the money vlaves would ballon the economy again – an economy which, as one comedian put it, has shot up the cost of living so much it's cheaper to eat money.

But the President is insistent that the valves be opened. How much, not one yet knows.

The theory is that the "enemy" inflation has been braked and is retreating. Now is the time to narrow the sights and concentrate on specifics. What is the key factor? Inside the White House the word is – spiraling wages, especially construction wages.

Some statistics show that these have gone up 94.9 cents and hour in one quarter, or anywhere from 200 to 400 per cent higher than commercial and manufacturing costs. Or twice,three times that of any other group wages. But never mind the statisticians. Fact is that construction wages, now in some cities beginning to roll over $10 an hour without fringes, are pulling up all other cost and wages.

Furthermore, in many parts of the nation there is no "seasonability" says the President's advisers, so the construction workers are on the job the year round.

So the first move will be aginst the building and construction trade unions. How can this be manuevered without a wage freeze?

The U.S. government and the White House have an awesome arsenal of options.

And it will use them because, as Mr. Nixon's special adviser, Robert Finch, said in a private memo, Nov. 9, the Republicans want to run on "Peace and Prosperity issues" in 1972.

One of Mr. Nixon's specialist put it this way the other day:

"Once you get the economy doing about what you want it to do – and we have-- then you turn you attention to specific wants. This is largely in wage and price areas. There are powerful implications for the public in some of these labor settlements.

"And businessmen and union men will be unwise to believe that we in this circle are not aware that the public interest always is at the bargaining table."

What are the options which those who are so "aware" can use? There is an act called the Davis-Bacon law which says that the government may have some ideas of what those wages are on billions of dollars worth of contracts.

Special hiring regulations and state certification of skills can be invoked. Contracts can be manipulated, delayed or placed in "other" sections of the land, "other" from those areas where the unions have concentrated power.

The government is powerful," siad the White House specialist , "and the unions and companies had better take warning and heed."

There is vast power in the office and voice of the President. He, or his Commission on Productivity, can talk loudly of wages not matching productivity -- and of prices being out of range. And he could smash prices, as he did in timber about a years ago. And with the de-escalation would come layoffs and lower wages.

Point is that the sotto voce scrap is one inside the White House – and that the President plans to move.

Just how he will keep wages and prices down without a legal freeze, just how he will thaw out the job makret and get the 5.6 percent unemployed back to work, will take some decisive action. But the word is, that is what is coming -- especially on construction wages. And some prices.

Grandma, platinum blonde

Dear Ann Landers: Whatever happened to Grandma? I mean that gentle,soft-spoken matronly woman with the silver-gray hair and glasses? She wore floral print house dresses and sensible shoes. Her grandchildren loved to sit at her feet and listen to old stories about "the olden days."

I had two wonderful grandmothers. They were an important part of my growing-up years. My own children, I'm sorry to say, are less fortunate. One Grandma lives a thousand miles away. The other Grandma is withing 20 minutes by car but we rarely see her. The in-town Grandma is a platinum blond. She wears fake eyelashes, 11 pounds of jewelry, no bra, cigaret holder -- the whole bit. Herlife revolves around the beauty shop, her exercise class and shopping for clothes. Her main goal in life is to look 10 years younger than her sister who is two years older.

The children have been asked to call her by her first name. Half the time she can't remember theirs. Grandma is unquestionably a knockout for 50 but I feel, somehow, my children are being cheated. What values will they learn from their grandmother? How will they remember her? --Sad Natalie

Dear Sad: Your children will remember Grandma as a platinum blonde, with fake eyelashes, 11 pounds of jewelry, no bra and a cigaret holder. What values will they learn from her? None. She isn't around enough. And from your description, it's just as well.

Dear Ann Landers: Bill, age 40, was my steady fellow for three years. He received an attractive job offer in another city and asked me to go with him. Had he suggested marriage I would have said yes, but he did not.

That was two years ago. Bill is back in town, vague about why the job didn't work out and full of stories about a "Crooked" boss and "underhanded people." He is argumentative and blows up if he doesn't get his way. Last night he said I was trying to get rid of him because I have a new love. This is absurd. Perhaps I should tell you Bill complains about severe headaches but refuses to see a doctor. Frankly, I want to end our relationship but I'm afraid of what he might do to me. Help me, please. --Terrified

Dear T.: Tell Billit's over. If he bothers you, get a peace bond. As a final gesture of friendship, urge him to see a doctor about a thorough neurological examination. His erratic behavior suggests personality changes for whick there might be an organic reason.

Dear Ann Landers: Last night my husband and I attended a public meeting. I was seated on the stage and had a good view of 1700 people. What I saw made me ashamed of my fellow Americans.

When the National Anthem was played, some people didn't even stand up. Several men did not remove their hats. A few dozen people (men and women both) saluted. Others placed their hands over their hearts. Some people didn't know their hearts are on the left side.

Half the people I watched didn't know the words. They faked it or didn't sing at all. Comment please.--Phil

Dear Phil: When the National Anthem is played, everyone should stand. Men should removed their hats. If the flag is on display the hand should be placed over the heart. For those who don't know, the heart is on the left side.

Arts and crafts show in Charleston armory

Inaugural gown dolls collection to be featured

The second annual Arts and Crafts Show, sponsored by the Mississippi County Historical Society and Art Gallery, will be held Saturday and Sunday, in the Charleston Armory on South Main street in Charleston.

The highlight of this year's exhibit will be the presidential inaugural gown doll collection owned by Mrs. Fern Collins of Colorado, the former Miss Fern Morris of Charleston. Mrs. Collins will have other items on exhibit, including collection of 8-inch dolls which are reproductions of the models shown in the 1865 Gody's Lady Book, framed samplers, afghans and antique dolls.

Hand-made Christmas ornaments, needlework, stuffed animals and Persain antiquing will be for sale. Area artists will display for sale art work including miniatures.

There will be a bake sale Saturday beginning at noon. Mrs. Ray Hillhouse, chairman of the food section, promises an ample supply of cakes, pies, pastries, cookies and candies and suggests this as a good time to plan Thanksgiving dessert.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Goodin and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Story, all of Charleston, share chairmanship of the show. Mrs. Sam Cox Goodin will be treasurer.

Hours are from 12 noon to 6 p.m. Saturday and from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday. There is no admission charge.

Proceeds from the sale of foods and donated craft items will support the Mississippi County Historical Society Museum and Art Gallery. Due to a shortage of funds, the gallery and museum, located in the old hotel building at 202 East Commercial in Charleston, has been closed, except by special appointment, since July. The Society tours an average of 10,000 people a year through the gallery, museum and Hearnes Room.

NEW YORK (AP) — Back into the ball game after a week's layoff, body rested, mind alert—and ready to predict that the Western Division race in the National Football Conference will be all but wrapped up Sunday by San Francisco's 49ers.

The 49ers, two games ahead of the Los Angeles Rams, meet the tougher opponent in Detroit, while their West Coast neighbors take on Atlanta. But the 49ers will win, the Rams will lose.

Here are this week's picks, all games Sunday unless otherwise noted:

San Francisco 31, Detroit 17—The 49ers are rolling behind John Brodie, a rebuilt defense and a four-game winning streak. They have never won a division title. But this is the year. The Lions should be down after losing to Minnesota last week.

Atlanta 24, Los Angeles 21—Two weeks ago the Rams had to rally to tie the Falcons 10-10 and last week they were blasted by the New York Jets 31-20. The defensive unit is showing signs of its age, and Atlanta should be able to exploit what the Jets showed them.

Minnesota 35, Green Bay 24—The Vikings only loss in nine games was in an early season meeting with the Pakcers. But it would be difficult to imagine a club as strong as Minnesota losing to any opponent twice.

Oakland 28, San Diego 27—George Blanda may not be able to get the Raiders off the hook a fifth week in succession, but it does figure to be Daryle Lamonica's turn to grab a headline in this meeting in the American Conference's tough Western Division.

Kansas City 31, St. Louis 24—The Chiefs' offense may be ready to roll under the guidance of Len Dawson, and the defense is strong enough to shut down the Cardinals' ground-oriented attack revolving around MacArthur Lane.

Washington 34, Dallas 24—Both still in Eastern race behind Cardinals and Giants. Redskins, however, are clicking on offense. The Cowboys just aren't clicking.

Baltimore 28, Miami 21—The Dolphins should give the Colts more trouble than they did in a 35-0 loss earlier in the season. But the Baltimore defense is made of sterner stuff than Miami's.

Cleveland 42, Houston 21—The Browns aren't exactly terrors, but then Wally Lemm's quitting the Oilers for some reason. Even Charley Johnson's return at quarterback hasn't braked the skid.

Cincinnati 27, Pittsburgh 14—How Coach Paul Brown continues to pull off surprises for the Bengals is a constant amazement. But his play calling's been pretty good. It's a good time to stick with him.

Denver 17, New Orleans 10—The Broncos are slipping, but Floyd Little is No. 1 in the American Conference in rushing and should be able to run for daylight against the Saints.

Chicago 31, Buffalo 14—The Bills have a hot passing combination in Dennis Shaw to Marlin Briscoe, but are injury-riddled. The Bears gave Green Bay a tussle last week before succumbing.

New York Jets 34, Boston 10—The Jets' Al Woodall, Joe Namath's quarterback substitute, apparently has found himself. Joe Kapp still is looking.

MONDAY

New York Giants 37, Philadelphia 20—The Giants have the most versatile back in the NFC—Ron Johnson—and the go fostered by six straight victories. The Eagles haven't won that many even if you count last year.

ABA Attendance Up 33 Per Cent

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The commissioners of the American Basketball Association met Thursday to hear progress reports on television plans, attendance and recruiting, but took no formal action.

ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph reported at a news conference after the meeting that attendance for the league is up 33 per cent this year.

Dolph said that this week he approved a dozen new merchandising contracts for the league, including everything from earrings to pennants.

On more controversial topics, however he would only say that the league owners had met to "bring ourselves up to date on television, recruiting, merger status and to make some plans."

As he sees it, Dolph said, merger between the ABA and the National Basketball Association is is inevitable. And, he said, he feels there is about a 50 per cent chance of the two leagues operating a common draft this year.

Dolph declined to speculate about the amount of the league's television contract with CBS, noting that no decision has been made on the exact number of games to be played on television. He estimated that there will be about seven televised games, besides the All-Star contest and said agreement has been reached on three of these.

Nebraska "Is No. 1"

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Nebraska can pick up all of the marbles Saturday when the third-ranked Cornhuskers face Oklahoma's young Sooners in the down-to-the-wire race for the Big Eight Conference football championship.

A victory or a tie wil give Nebraska the title. If Oklahoma wins, the Sooners would still have to beat Oklahoma State Nov. 28 to share the crown. Nebraska, Orange Bowl bound, is 6-0 in conference play and Oklahoma 4-1.

Coaches Bob Devaney of Nebaska and Chuck Fairbanks of Oklahoma agree Nebraska is the nation's best football team regardless of what the rating poll shows.

"Nebraska has the best team in the nation right now," says Fairbanks. "They have tremendous balance between their offense and defense...

"I don't know if our young team has the capability to beat Nebraska or not. I do know we will play with all the determination we can muster."

Two other conference games have no title race significance. Iowa State, 1-5, invades Oklahoma State, 1-4, and the loser likely will wind up in the basement. Kansas, 2-4, travels to Missouri, also 2-4, and the winner will get a tie for fourth place.

Two non-conference games find Colorado, 5-4, at Air Force, ranked No. 10 and one of the Sugar Bowl teams, and Kansas State, 6-4, at Florida State.

Oklahoma will bank heavily on a sophomore-studded backfield that includes Joe Wylie, Leon Crosswhite and Greg Pruitt plus junior quarterback Jack Mildren.

The Sooners must not only contain the passing of Jerry Tagge and Van Brownson but put the damper on the running of aces Joe Orduna, who scored four touchdowns against Kansas State in a 51-13 victory last week; Jeff Kinney, and Johnny Rodgers.

Oklahoma has received invitations from four bowls. However, Fairbanks thinks the Sooners will have to play well against Nebraska to remain in the bowl picture. "I don't know if we would want to play in a bowl game ifwe get embarrassed up there," he says.

Oklahoma State faces the league's topp team on pass defense in Iowa State, and the passing of the Cowboys' Tony Pounds is one of their stronger points.

Missouri Coach Dan Devine has said the Tigers plan to throw the ball "quite a bit" in their traditional game with Kansas.

Kansas will be strengthened by the return of defensive tackle Duke Holden.

Colorado faces a severe test in trying to stop flanker Ernie Jennings, fastest player in Air Force history. The Buffs hope to generate enough offense from Jon Keyworth, Clifford Branch, Ward Walsh and John Tarver to turn back the Falcons.

Kansas State has lost receiver John Goerger and likely will be without linebacker Oscar Gibson against Florida State. A Wildcat victory would make Kansas State's season 7-4, best since 1954.

Kansas State Coach Vince Gibson also would like to win because he and four of his assistants either played for Florida State or coached there at one time. xz2acs Nov. 20

Mustangs Kick Tigers Out of Tournament

WARDELL — Coach Dave McMahon's North Pemiscot Mustangs earned a berth in the finals of their own invitational tournament last night as they crushed the visiting Risco Rigers 83-60. The night's action also saw Naylor put it on Clarkton 62-46 to gain a similar position in the tourney's consolation bracket.

Naylor used their eagle eye charity throw shooting to vault them into consolation contention by connecting on 20 of 28 of the one pointers. Field goals were just about balanced between the two squads, as Naylor hit twenty- one and Clarkton twenty, but Clarkton's lowly six free shots spelled the contest's difference.

Senior Kenny Day was on a wild scoring streak for the victorious Eagles as he ended the night's action with 23 big points. Larry Purdom and Ronnie Parrent aided in the Reindeer's downfall as they hit 18 and 15 respectively.

Naylor will now meet the victor of tonight's Campbell - Gideon tilt Saturday at 6:30 for the consolation spoils.

North Pemiscot stretched their powerful muscles once again for the home- town crowd in Ross Gym with their second pasteing in two tourney outings. Before last night's 83-60 win over Risco, the Mustangs had also romped Clarkton 83-40.

The number one seeded Mustangs shot a blistering fifty-four percent from the field, as they found the range on 35 of 64 field shots. North Pem committed thirty- one fouls, however, but Risco still couldn't close the wide gap between the two squads. The Tigers had fourty- eight shots from the free throw line, but only made good on twenty- four.

North Pemiscot placed five men in the twin figure column, with Johnny Burlison on top with 17. Randy White and Tony Winston followed closely, as they pumped in 14 and 13. Blackmon and McCulloch brought up the high echelon's rear with 11 and 10 markers respectively.

Randy Terry managed to lead all scorers for the night, however, as he burned in twenty five big points in the Tigers losing cause. Darrell Wood was the only other Tiger to hit in double figures, as he accounted for 15 of Risco's total.

North Pem will now watch the Holcomb - Caruthersville contest tonight closely, as they will meet the victor in Saturday night's final and tele- telling game.

Pistons Struggling

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cincinnati Royals added insult to injury by finally beating the New York Knicks while the Detroit Pistons were happy just to beat anyone.

The Pistons, suffering through a six-game losing streak after winning 12 of their first 13 games, came from behind to nip the Phoenix Suns 112-110 in Detroit Thursday night in a National Basketball Association game.

The Royals, trounced twice earlier by the Knicks, blew a 21-point lead before staving off the Knicks 106-98 in New York as the world champions played without injured Willis Reed, Cazzie Russell and Dave DeBusschere.

In the only other NBA game, Seattle beat Los Angeles 111-110.

In the American Basketball Association, Utah crushed Texas 130-115 and the Floridians nudged Memphis 108-103 in the only games.

Reed missed his second game with a sore knee and DeBusschere left in the first quarter when he aggravated a bad ankle. Russel is out with a broken wrist. The Knicks fell behind 62-45 at the half.

However, they came out with 6-foot-7 Dave Stallworth playing center, 6-5 Bill Bradley and three guards for the third quarter and staged a furious rally, finally pulling even at 96 and then 98 as Stallworth had 21 points and 19 rebounds.

However, Nate Archibald, a 22-point scorer with teammate Tom Van Arsdale—Walt Frazier had 28 for New York—hit a basket with 1:47 left and two free throws 16 seconds later and the Royals scored the last eight points.

During those final minutes, Royals' Coach Bob Cousy suffered a dizzy spell, but stayed on the bench for the end of the game. He was examined later and pronounced fit, although he was to have a more intensive check-up today.

The Pistons blew a 14-point lead in the second quarter but still led by five with 3:25 to go before Phoenix stormed into the lead 110-108. However, Bob Lanier scored for Detroit with 30 seconds left and then passed to Steve Mix for a driving layup with four seconds to go for the winning basket.

Jimmy Walker had 23 points for Detroit and Clem Haskins 24 for Phoenix.

Los Angeles rookie Jim McMillan missed two of three foul shots in the waning seconds enabling Seattle to outlast the Lakers. Garfield Heard had scored the field goal that put the Sonics ahead 111-108 with a minute left.

Wilt Chamberlain of Los Angeles was game-high scorer with 32 points while Don Kojis topped Seattle with 26.

Donnie Freeman scored 22 of his 24 points in the first half as Utah ran off to a 69-48 lead and was never threatened, winning for the 13th time in 16 games. Glen Combs had 30 for the Texans, now 2-12.

"Revenge Bowl" Saturday

By The Associated Press

All sorts of post- season invitations will be flying through the air Saturday but two of the games highlighting the day's collegiate action could be dubbed "Revenge Bowls.'.

ohio State's Woody Hayes wants revenge and so does Louisiana State's Charlie McClendon.

Fourth- ranked Michigan invades Hayes' lair to play No. 5 Ohio State, which wants retribution for that shocking 24-12 loss to the Wolverines a year ago.

For McClendon and his Bengals from the Bayous, a victory over second- ranked Notre Dame would be in the measure of poetic justice. Charlie Mac and his boys spent last New Year's Day at home after the Irish suddenly abandoned their no-bowl policy and went to the Cotton Bowl.

'.Im trying not to make this game any bigger than it is," mcClendon says of his clash with Notre Dame, which he calls "the biggest and most talented team we have ever played."

With No. 1 Texas idle this week, Parseghian knows his Irish must hustle against LSU. "They're absolutely amazing on defense," Parseghian proclaims of the Tigers. '.no one has scored a touchdown against them on the ground in 11 games."

The Michigan - Ohio State game is one of the afternoon's two nationally televised ABC affairs. The Southern California - UCLA battle, which this year doesn't involve much more than the Los Angeles city championship, follows.

Hayes has had his training area sealed off this week and Columbus resembles a top- secret military base. The game between the two unbeaten Big Ten powers is for the conference championship. Ohio State has already cinched a trip to the Rose Bowl, where its Jan. 1 opponent will be Stanford, but Hayes is aching to beat "that other team," the only way he refers to Michigan.

Third- ranked Nebraska, already tabbed for the Orange Bowl, entertains Oklahoma for the Big Eight championship Saturday.

Only a handful of teams could accept bowl bids prior to this Saturday. Nebraska was one and 10th- ranked Air Force, which opted for the Sugar Bowl, was another. Air Force plays Colorado this week.

Sixth- ranked Arkansas invades No. 19 Texas Tech in a game which could have a bearing on the host role in the Cotton Bowl and where Notre Dame goes.

It's a pretty involved situation. If Texas Tech beats Arkansas and either Arkansas or Texas A&M upset Texas, then Texas Tech would earn the host spot in the Cotton Bowl. If the Red Raiders beat Arkansas this Saturday, then the best guess is that Notre Dame - provided it wins -- wil take the Orange Bowl bid in preference to a return trip to the Cotton Bowl.

Parseghian has made no bones about wanting to go to the bowl where the ranking is - and that would be the Cotton Bowl for a rematch with Texas if the Longhorns survive their Dec. 5 clash with Arkansas.

The Sugar Bowl, meanwhile, is expected to offer the host's role to No. 8 Tennessee if the Vols get by lowly Kentucky as expected this Saturday.

The Orange Bowl, if snubbed by Notre Dame, has its choice of either Arkansas or LSU, but could turn to either No. 12 Mississippi or No. 13 Auburn. Both the Rebels and the Plainsmen are idle this week and it is expected that the Gator Bowl will invite one or both at sundown Saturday.

Arizona State, No. 9, hosts New Mexico Saturday night in the only after- dark game involving a team in the Top Ten. And in a clash tonight at Anaheim, No. 14 San Diego State plays Long Beach State.

Stanford, No. 11, is at California: No. 15 Toledo hosts Colorado State; No. 16 Dartmouth is at Penn; No. 18 Northwestern is at Michigan State and No. 20 Penn State entertains Pitt in games involving the second ten. Georgia Tech, No. 17, is idle.

And then there is THE game, although neither bowl trips nor national rankings are involved. For the 87th time, Yale and Harvard will slug it out on the gridiron. The game this year is at Cambridge, Mass. and Yale is a touchdown favorite.

Dexter Hosts 3A Semi-Final Bout

DEXTER — The Daily Standard's "coach of The Year", Clyde Vaughn, leads his Dexter Bearcat footballers against St. Louis Lutheran South in a semi-final round game of the Missouri State High School Activities Association state football playoffs here Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Dexter, the hottest team through the stretch in the Southern Division title race, will send its 9-1 Cats against a 5-4 St. Louis power.

Lutheran, who's shcedule was built around 4-A St. Louis powers, have the worst record among the four teams entered in Saturday's semi-final round. The other 3A playoff battle is at Chillicothe where the host (9-0) meet Warrensburg (7-1-1), and the worst of any team making the playoffs in any of the four classes.

But, don't let that record fool you! The Lancers, members of the always football tough ABC league and coached by Lloyd Holsten, will display a hard hitting defense and a swift running ground game against the Bearcats combination of running and passing.

Coach Holsten was overjoyed last Saturday when his team was announced for the semi-finals and noted: "We've been known for our basketball talents but not for our football, this is just great!"

Dexter on the other hand is not a stranger at either spot and have encountered the Lancers on the hardwoods in previous seasons, the latest in the first round of the state basketball tournament last season where Lutheran prevailed and eventually claimed second in the Class M final.

So, with Lutheran leading 1-0 in the competition this year (1970), the Bearcats have got a little added incentative for Saturday's semi-final round battle.

Coach Vaughn's squad moved down the stretch of its schedule, bowling over Sikeston and Poplar Bluff in successive weeks and then capped its regular season with a 12-6 verdict over Malden for a share of the Southern Division championship and the playoff berth.

Dexter wore down the Green Waves with its platooning and capitalized in the fourth period, scoring 12 points to erase a 6-0 three quarter lead of Malden.

Terry Gibson, Southeast Missouri's second leading scorer during the season with 108 points, and Bruce Hindman provided the Bearcats with a solid one-two punch in a running game and the combination of David Mathis and Rick Barber make for the district's top passing combination.

Lutheran wasn't even mentioned in the St. Louis Globe's latest prep basketball poll and hasn't been listed among the top ten of the class since early in the season.

Hunting Success

DEAN KING' 715 Troy, bagged this 225- pound--eight point buck Saturday near Zalma.

ONE OF THE AREA'S biggest deer kills of the season was recorded by Jim Woods, 923 Hawthorn, who displays a 10- point --- 215 pound buck killed near West Plains Saturday while hunting as a guest of Presley Trailer Sales.

KENNETH NIMMO, route four Sikeston, bagged an eight- point--180 pound buck Sunday near Van Buren.

What They Look For

When a checker at a deer station looks in your deer's mouth during the Nov. 14-23 season, he isn't looking for gold fillings or inflamed tonsils. He's trying to find out how old the animal is.

The first thing the deer checker does is pat the deer on the head if it doesn't have visible antlers. Hunters with trophy bucks also may get a pat on the back, but that has nothing to do with game management.

The head pat tells the checker if the deer is a button buck. Next step is to weigh the deer. Live weight can be calculated from the dressed weight. A rule of thumb is to divide the dressed weight by five and add the answer to the dressed weight to get live weight.

Next the checker looks to see if the hunter left in the heart, liver and lungs and, if so, he adjusts his weight figure. Then comes the dental exam.

Fawns from four to seven months old have only four teeth. Yearlings have 6 teeth but have temporary pre- molars. The third pre- molar has three peaks (permanent teeth have only two peaks). If the deer has permanent teeth, the checker looks for the amount of wear.

From experience and from a chart furnished each check station or from a box of representative jaw bones also furnished each station, the checker gets a good idea how old the deer is. He'd be pretty safe guessing the animal is three years or younger, since 95 per cent of the deer checked in Missouri fall in that category.

Next, the checker measures the hind foot from hock to the tip of the hoof and the antler circumferance, an inch bove the head if it is a buck.

Both these measurements, compared with measurements from the same part of the state over the years, gives the biologist an idea of the condition of the range.

Where deer are poorly fed, the skeletal structure will be smaller -- meaning the hind foot will be shorter. Antlers also will be smaller. It is through such subtle hints as these that deer managers can identify overpopulation which is leading to destruction of deer range.

Biologists at a busy check station will perform all these oeprations in bout 30 seconds. Frequently, there are special experiments or checks going on at the Department which require extra procedures.

For several years, checkers took blood samples and were able to prove that deer don't carry brucellosis, something which had worried cattle raisers, and that deer are not responsible for the spread of disease to livestock.

Another time, checkers collected ovaries so deer biologists could study reproductive potential. The biologists learned that most mature does produce twin fawns each year and that up to 75 per cent of female fawns in good range potentially will produce fawns.

In one special study, biologists collected deer eyeballs to see if lens weights, used in aging rabbits, would not work equally well for deer. But the method proved no better than the tooth check, so that procedure was retained.

"Next deer...."

An eight point buck was the prize for Terry Manes, route one Sikeston, when he went hunting Monday near Van Buren. The buck weighted in at 240 pounds.

Deer Kill Reaches 26,821

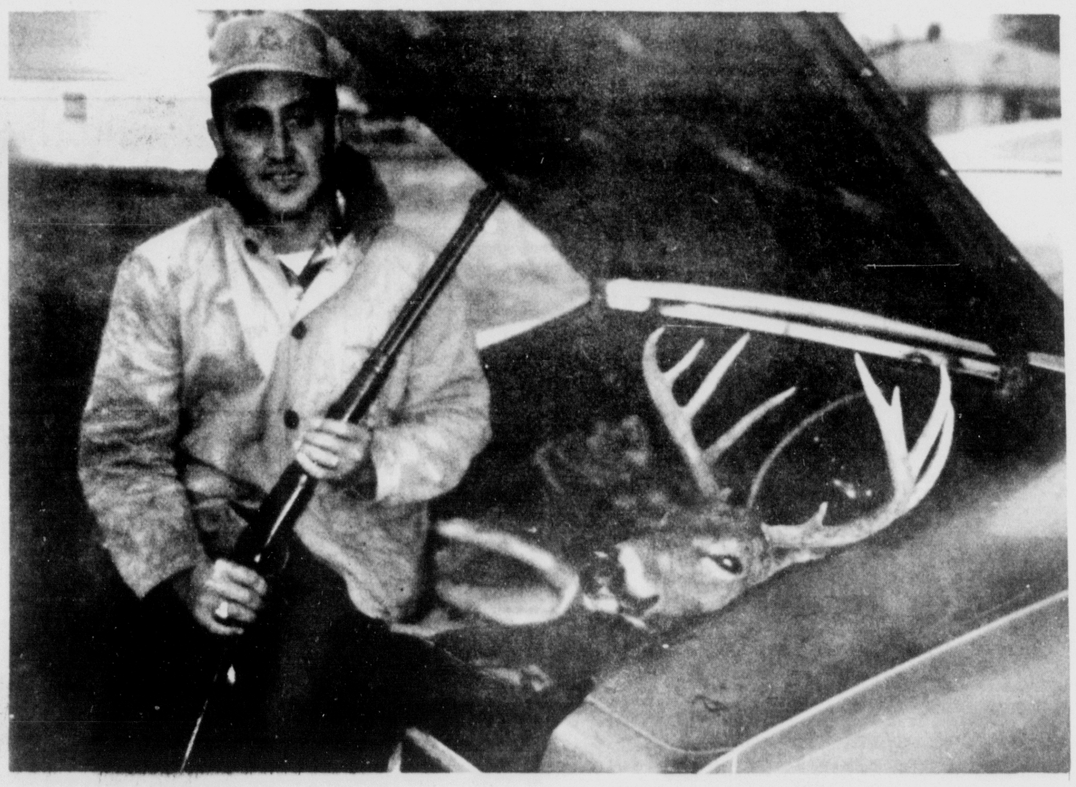
JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri hunters killed only 322 deer Thursday, causing speculation that many are waiting for the weekend to prowl the woods.

The conservation department said the total for the first six days of the 10- day season was 26,821. In a similar period last year the figure was 20,552, and in all 10 days last year the count was 23,884.

Although only five deer were killed Thursday in Texas County it still led with 1,174. Howell County had 1,014, Benton 946 and Ozark 836.



GARRY LOVE, of 2012 Kentucky, bagged his first deer of the season Saturday near Van Buren. The 10 point, 230 lbs. buck, is one of the largest this season.

Hoover and Clark Swap Verbal Shots

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, apparently uneasy bedfellows in law enforcement for two years, have publicly divorced themselves with verbal blasts at each other.

Clark, Hoover's boss from 1967 to 1969, fired the first shot. The 76-year-old director's "self-centered concern for his own reputation," said Clark in a new book, led to the FBI's sacrifice of "effective crime control."

Hoover, in turn, told a Washington Post reporter that Clark was "a jellyfish," the worst attorney general in the 45 years Hoover has headed the elite federal law enforcement agency.

While a 1964 confrontation over standards for FBI agents resulted in Hoover's refusal to speak to the late Robert F. Kennedy in the last six months of his tenure as attorney general, the director told the Washington Post in an interview:

"If ever there was a worse attorney general, it was Ramsey Clark. You never knew which way he was going to flop on an issue.

"He was worse than Bobby (Kennedy)," the newspaper's Tuesday editions quoted Hoover as saying. "At least Kennedy stuck by his guns, even when he was wrong."

At a news conference in New York Tuesday, Clark said Hoover was "entitled to his own opinions," adding that the FBI director had never made his comments to him directly.

"Mr. Hoover has never been terribly tolerant of criticism," Clark said. He added, however, "I think Mr. Hoover has made

"There has never been an attorney general for whom I've had higher regard," the Post quoted him as saying.

In his book, "Crime in America," Clark charged "the FBI has so coveted personal credit that it will sacrifice ever effective crime control before it will share the glory of its exploits.

"This has been a petty and costly characteristic caused by the excessive domination of a single person, J. Edgar Hoover, and his self-centered concern for his reputation and that of the FBI."

Advance publicity on the book stirred Hoover to momentarily lower a barrier between himself and newsmen that had existed for three years.

Judging by past public statements of both men, Hoover and Clark were poles apart in their philosophical approach to law enforcement.

Clark displayed a tendency to search for the social and economic causes of crime; Hoover is less willing to forgive. Clark supported the Supreme Court decisions expanding rights of the accused; to Hoover they are "handcuffs" on the police.

Clark, considered a potential dark horse for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, said in his book a rift developed between Kennedy and Hoover over pursuit of organized crime.

The FBI Clark said, continued to dramatize the peril of the Communist party "long after there was any risk to national security from that source."

Hoover, however, gave other reasons for his rift with Kennedy.

"The trouble was that Kennedy wanted to loosen up our standards and qualifications; to discard the requirement that agents hold degrees in law or accounting. He even wanted to discard the bachelor's degree as a requirement," Hoover was quoted as saying.

Commenting on campus unrest, Hoover repeated to the Post his criticism of permissive college administrators and said reports that 1,000 new FBI agents, authorized by the 1970 Omnibus Crime Control Act, would be assigned to campuses were "absolutely untrue."

He also was described as denying that the FBI had reached any conclusions about the death of four students in a confrontation with Ohio National Guardsmen last May 4 at Kent State University. Any conclusions, he said, were made by the Justice Department from an objective FBI report.

The Post story also included these points:

—Hoover said he opposes proposals to give the FBI investigative jurisdiction in deaths of policemen. In most cases, he explained, the crime is swiftly solved by local authorities.

—The FBI director said his agency is now operating about 40 wiretaps in so-called national security cases, the only category for which advance court permission is not required.

The FBI he added, has a standing order never to tap the telephone of a senator, congressman or newsman. Checking an allegation by the late columnist Drew Pearson that the FBI was tapping his phone, Hoover said he found the tap had been put on by another agency.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

Governor Warren Hearnes has put forward what is likely the most constructive tax program of his administration, in his address to the special session of the General Assembly, called to meet the crisis situation which now exists in the state treasury relative to financing essential state services. His action was courageous, aggressive and practical. He should be commended by all forward-thinking and reasonable Missouri citizens, most of whom, we believe, are reconciled to the fact that state government is responsible for providing essential state services such as: education, old age assistance, mental health, medicaid, etc. even though a tax increase is necessary to support them.

The governor's program for raising the additional money needed, is sound. He asked for increases to double the taxation on beer, wine and liquor; that the corporate income tax be increased from 2-5% and that the individual income tax rate now ranging from 1-4% be changed to yield at a rate ranging from 2-6%. It was also the governors recommendation that all of these increases become effective January 1, 1971. These are sound recommendations. None of these taxes are now high nor would the recommended rates be out of line, in fact, Missourians would then be taxed at a rate considerably below the average for the 50 states.

Warren Hearnes has acted in accordance with the leadership role which the people of the state expected him to assume when he was elected governor. He has done this forthrightly and practically. It is now up to the General Assembly as to whether or not they will follow, by fully assuming the responsibility which they too took when they were elected to represent the best interest of all citizens of Missouri.

Some of them have stated that "the people have spoken" when they rejected the income tax package last April, that "the people do not want additional taxes." We think his is a week kneed, weaseling approach. Of course, people don't want additional taxes. But, certainly a majority of our citizens desire the services which are now being starved to death from lack of state financial support. They expect the General Assembly to develop ways for funding them. The governor's new tax program is different from the one presented in April, which in many aspects was confusing, and which became involved in political bickering and misrepresentation having no bearing on its merit, but further confusing the voter who acted in the usual fashion when issues are not clearly presented and voted "no." It is now up to the General Assembly to stand and be counted as to whether or not: they represent the people; believe in good government and in funding the services which the state should provide. Naturally, as it is our professional responsibility to try to bring about better educational opportunities for our children, we give education a high priority. In fact, funding education is second in priority in the Missouri Constitution, coming only behind paying the state's bonded indebtedness. Governor Warren Hearnes has been a strong proponent for better schools, since he entered the legislature 21 years ago. Our representatives, Tony Heckemeyer and Gene Copeland (part of our school district is in New Madrid County) have supported education in the past. Senators Albert Spradling and J. F. "Pat" Patterson have certainly done so. We believe that these men will continue to represent the interests of the people by whom they were elected by voting for the tax measures which are necesary if Missouri's schools and other essential state services are to be maintained.

All elementary schools will hold "Open House" next week in accordance with the following schedule: Southeast and Lee Hunter, Monday, November 23, 7 to 8:30 P.M. and Morehouse, Southwest and Matthews, Tuesday, November 24, 7 to 8:30 P.M.

All parents and other patrons are invited to attend. Parents are especially urged to meet their child's teacher and to become informed as to the program and as to what their particular child may be learning.

The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools is an organization formed to evaluate or to measure the programs of member schools in order to maintain a high level of educational standards. Our Senior High School is a member of that organization, as we have been for a very considerable number of years. It is a requirement that schools be re-evaluated not less than once every seven years. It has been seven years since our last evaluation, so we are now preparing to undergo that process which will cover a two year period.

The first phase will involve an appraisal by representatives of the community, the board of education and the faculty of the program of educational opportunities which we maintain. This is a most useful step as we can look at ourselves and become fully informed as to our strengths and weaknesses, to find out what our students can and are learning. It gives teachers an opportunity to more fully develop and understand the aims and philosophy of the school and how their particular assignments and effectiveness relate to these aims. We look at ourselves.

The second phase of the study, which will take place next year, will be done by a team of experienced educators, selected for their particular qualifications, who will come into the school for a minimum three- day period to make a careful study and examination of the educational program and how it is functioning. This team will consist of public, private school and university representatives, thoroughly familiar with the areas for which they are responsible. Their study will be detailed. Such areas as the school board, the school and community relationship, staff and administration, and every subject matter department or area will receive a careful evaluation.

Following the study, a comprehensive written report will be made to the community, the board of education and the faculty

The primary value of membership in the North Central, is that the community, the board and the faculty may be aware of our educational opportunities, thus to plan them for improvement and to better accomplish the educational aims which we should have. Other values are: that member schools maintain better educational programs because of the standards required and graduates have a somewhat better chance of being admitted to a college or university because college admissions directors are aware of the North Central's emphasis on high standards for its member schools.

More Yule Calls to Vietnam

More Vietnam servicemen will be able to talk with their families by phone this Christmas.

Six overseas telephone circuits have been added between the United States and Vietnam since last Christmas, bringing the total to 16 circuits.

However, persons wishing to reach servicemen in Vietnam should plan ahead for calling during the holiday rush.

It is generally easier for serviceman to call home than for his family to try to reach him there. Servicemen can call the U.S. from Saigon, Ton Son Nhut, Long Bhin, Cam Rahn Bay, Nha Trang, Qui Nhon and Da Nang. Calls from the U.S. can be place; only to Saigon.

It is difficult to reach a serviceman in Saigon unless the caller knows the man's unit, APO and a phone where he can be reached.

Servicemen call first-come-first-served from Vietnam, but it usually takes only a few minutes to call the states once a man gets to a phone at one of the Vietnam centers.

Callers should keep in mind the14-hour difference in U.S. and Saigon time. For example, when it is 11 a.m. December 25 here, it is 1 a.m. Dec. 26 in Saigon.

Bible Reading No Longer So Laborious

NEW YORK (AP) — Bible reading, which used to demand struggling with a lot of archaic words and old-English quirks of style and meaning, now is much easier.

And this Sunday, countless thousands of Americans will begin doing it, on a special basis.

The occasion is National Bible Week.

Although this oldest book of books is packed with profundities that have engrossed scholars through the ages, stirred endless research and filled libraries with studious volumes of analysis, it also was meant for ordinary people.

And today, it is available to them in quantity of copies and in translations into modern, everyday language, to an extent unequaled before.

Several crisp, lively new translations have come out lately—the Catholic-sponsored New American Bible and Jerusalem Bible, and the Protestant-sponsored New English Bible—that make reading it a fresh experience.

All these translations involved Jewish-Catholic-Protestant cooperation, as did the relatively recent Protestant-sponsored Revised Standard Version. Others, such as the American Bible Society's popular "Today's English Version of the New Testament," also put the ancient truths in clearer, contemporary language.

National Bible Week, through which people are urged to join in a recommended sequence of daily Scripture readings, is sponsored by the Layman's National Bible Committee, the American Bible Society and the Catholic Biblical Association of America.

It used to be a more limited affair, the start of which generally is credited to the lay committee of Protestant, Jewish and Catholic businessmen in 1941, but the roots go back much further. In 1967, the Bible Society joined its support to the effort, as did the scholarly Catholic group last year.

The new interdenominational solidarity in boosting the Bible, as well as the surge of new, clearer translations, contrasts greatly with bygone situations, when copies were turgid or scarce, and the Bible itself was a cause of contention.

Speaker to Tell of Benevolent Home Work

Dr. Ehly will then speak in behalf of National Benevolent Association, an organization within the Christian Church that operates homes for children, for the aged and for exceptional children.

New Paths Augur Well for Religion

By DAVID POLING

"A growing number of people believe that religion is losing its influence on American life, according to the most recent data available from the American Institute of Public Opinion, Princeton, N.J." This statement comes from the "Yearbook of American Churches," published annually since 1914 and the most authoritative watchdog on church statistics.

The book carries pages of reports on finance, membership, and programs of most of the religious groups. This material is not generally read by those beyond denominational executives and prying sociologists. Yet some fascinating trends can be studied and the direction of organized religion rather carefully charted.

On this whole discussion of "religious influence," the yearbook adds these thoughts.

> "Twelve years ago, in 1957, only 14 per cent of all persons interviewed thought religion was losing ground in U.S. society. In 1968 (the year of most complete statistics) the figure was 67 per cent."

Yearbook editors suggest four reasons unearthed in the public opinion samplings:

- Young people are losing interest in formal religion; other influences are becoming more meaningful.
- Growing crime, immorality and violence.
- Materialistic distractions.
- The Church is not playing its proper role. (Some say it is not keeping up with the times, but as many more say it is too involved in social and political issues.)

Some additional observations made by those sampled: Young people from 19-21 were most pessimistic about the church scene. Church members shared the above four points as much as nonmembers. Opinion was universal.

The trends described point to serious trouble for the institutional church which desperately needs young people to carry on the work and traditions of the Faith. But we shall make a colossal error in judgment here if we think that religious influence of institutions is the same as religious interest and pursuit of people. The results may be manifest in unusual and exciting ways as tradition yields to innovation and inspiration.

Take the building thing. For the last five years new church construction has hit around $1 billion a year. It comes from the people who ride the bus to work, harvest the wheat and assemble the washing machines. Many thousands of families, when forced to decide between the building of a home or the construction of a cathedral, will in good sense look after the family.

On the other hand, you have a whole new breed of clergy that wants to build a fellowship of people, with or without bell tower. They know that bricks and stained glass and air-conditioned chapels are not what finally enlarges the Faith or extends the mission of Christ.

A good case can be made for a substantial increase in religious influence in the whole world. What we are seeing is not a decline in religion but a diffusion and this will bring hope and joy to millions of people who had never before been touched by the worn, tired programs of organized churches.

The POWER of FAITH

BY WOODI ISHMAEL

Amos was the third of the minor prophets in the Old Testament, although chronologically he was the earliest of them. He was a sheep farmer and tended the fig and mulberry trees. Living close to nature as he did, he saw God as the Lord of Nature, creator of the world and of man. He likened Him to a roaring lion in the forest and spoke of the "mourning" pastures and withered mountain tops.

Amos lived during a time when there was commercial expansion and development in Israel. He saw the social inequity and the rich and powerful oppressing the poor.

In Amos's prophecies his greatest concern was with social behavior and ethics. He condemned the luxury life of the cities, the dishonest merchants, those who diverted justice by bribery, the decline of social morality and the superficial attitude toward religion, with the sin and corruption in the temples and shrines. He prophesied that this would destroy Israel. We have our Amoses today, but do we listen?

Catholic Financial Secrecy Criticized by Laymen's Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Association of Laymen (NAL) said Monday that finances of the Roman Catholic Church in this nation are so secretive that they indicate "an unquestionable existence" of vast wealth similar to big business.

The national laymen's organization, which claims a membership of 12,000, released a 35-page financial study during the opening session of the week-long National Conference of Catholic Bishops (NCCB) and the U.S. Catholic Conference (USCC). On Sunday the bishops will try to collect $50 million from parishioners for the campaign for human development. The money is earmarked to fight poverty.

Joseph O'Donoghue, executive director of the Roman Catholic laymen's group, said at a news conference that reluctance of church leaders to disclose fully the finances of the dioceses across the nation "verges on major scandal." O'Donoghue estimated the church's wealth in the United States at $45 billion.

"We're always taking, taking, taking and never giving," he said. "How often can we go to the pews when we hold larger and larger assets."

"NAL does not question the honesty of church leaders," the organization said in a letter to the bishops. "But we are concerned that the American Catholic church is unnecessarily tarnished by a lack of clarity in financial matters."

The NAL financial report on the church was said to have been compiled by more than 100 parishoners over three months.

Film Slated At Illinois Ave. Church

A new dramatic film, "Like A Mighty Army", the down-to-earth true story of a man in tune with his times, will be shown at Illinois Ave. General Baptist Church Sunday at 7:15 p.m.

The social revolution among young people today is frightening in many of its aspects. Even the church is being seriously questioned as to its existence and activity. Instead of responding with bewilderment and fear, a handful of people in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., led by their dynamic young minister, Rev. James Kennedy, committed themselves to the principle of providing life-changing answers for the people of their community.

In 9 short years the Coral Ridge Church has become one of the fastest growing congregations in the world, growing from 17 to more than 2,000 members and needing 3 Sunday morning services to handle the crowds.

This exciting true story has been made into the film, "Like A Mighty Army" by Gospel Films, Inc., of Muskegon, Mich. Starring in the role of Dr. Kennedy is Chris Robinson who is best known for his role as an Air Force Sergeant in the television series, "Twelve O'clock High'..

"Like A Mighty Army", an inspirational film for the family is the latest release of Gospel Films, Inc., producers of "The Tony Fontane Story'., "Flip Side', and "A Four Letter Word".

Antismog Test May Be Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — A decision appears imminent on a drive by 17 states to have the Supreme Court consider their suit charging the major auto manufacturers with conspiring to delay the development of antismog devices.

The states want the court to order General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors to equip all their cars built since 1953 with devices that would cut down the 67.3 million tons of carbon monoxide released annually from auto exhausts.

That would mean going to work on an estimated 85 to 100 million used cars. Even if the court agrees to consider the matter, such an order is a long way off, however. First the 17 states, headed by Washington, must persuade the justices the Supreme Court is the only suitable forum to settle the suit swiftly.

Then the states would have to win their argument that the four manufacturers are guilty of conspiracy in violation of the Sherman antitrust Act.

Frederic C. Tausend, a special assistant attorney general for Washington state, seemed hopeful in a telephone interview that the court would at least consider the suit.

If the states are turned down, Tausend said, they will consider filing the same kind of joint suit in a federal district court.

Attorneys for GM, Chrysler, Ford, American Motors and a fifth defendant, the Automobile Manufacturers Association, argue the Supreme Court is the wrong place for the kind of complex trial that would be required.

The states say, however, a final decision could take 10 years to reach if suits had to make their way up through several federal courts.

Though this suit does not seek damages, 17 damage suits have been filed in courts across the country by parties ranging from the states of New York and Minnesota to an apricot farmer in California. Last September, federal judge Manuel L. Real of Los Angeles agreed to hold a hearing on the possibility of combining these suits.

The states filed their motion for Supreme Court consideration August 5. The defendants replied October 3. The court could issue its decision on whether to hold a hearing next Monday, just before beginning a two-week recess.

In the closing days of the Johnson administration the Justice Department charged the four auto makers and their association with conspiracy.

The government, however, dropped the case under the Nixon administration but a consent decree restrained the defendants from any future conspiracy without pressing for a judgment on any past violations and without the auto makers admitting any guilt.

This did not prevent the states or individuals from pushing ahead with their own lawsuits. The complaint to the Supreme Court was signed by Washington, Illinois, Arizona, Colorado, Hawaii, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, North Dakota and West Virginia.

Job Corps Site Rejected· By Hearnes

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has turned down the Labor Department's selection of a West Delmar avenue site in St. Louis for a Job Corps training center.

He said the location "is in an area statistically ranking as one of the highest crime districts in the entire St. Louis metropolitan area.

"It is difficult to understand how exposure to such an environment can be conducive to proper training of youngsters already burdened with similar problems, many of a similar nature."

In a letter to J. D. Hodgson, secretary of labor, the Missouri governor said "it is my earnest hope that you will continue to seek a more appropriate location in the St. Louis area which will provide this much needed service to our young prople."

It was the second time Hearnes had used his veto on a training center site. Last spring when the citizens of Bridgeton, Mo., protested against the center's location there the governor vetoed the plan. Finally, in midsummer the Labor Department dropped its lease on a hotel building in Bridgeton.

In his letter today, Hearnes said "a minor factor in our determiniation is the fact that you have not, as previously promised by your representatives, obtained the endorsement and support of the community involved.

"While Mayor (A. J.) Cervantes has given his approval to this locationl we find serious objections raised at the 'grass roots' level among individuals, neighborhood organizations, various committee people and aldermen affected.

YANKEES GO SOUTH

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Three New York Yankee pitchers, one of their infielders and an outfielder are playing this winter in the Puerto Rican League.

Pitchers Ron Klimkowski and Rob Gardner and third baseman John Ellis are with Ponce, pitcher Mike Kekich is with Frank Robinson's Santurce team and outfielder Ron Woods is with Mayaguez.

IN TRAINING, Prince Charles, England's future monarch, is being groomed for the job by both his father and mother. He recently represented the queen at the Philippines' independence ceremonies and here attends a conference with his father Prince Philip, who is conference president.

THE PEN HAS COME
A LONG WAY' BABY
By TOM HOWARD

Every day students, businessmen, clerks and practically every human being make us of a small and indispensable device without realizing it has a history reaching back beyond the Stone Age. That device is the pen.

It is an odd fact that world's oldest and newest writing instruments should both be made of wood. The first was probably a charred stick, used by some ape-featured caveman to sketch animal pictures on the walls of his dwelling. The newest is a line of pens and pencils with barrels made of rosewood and walnut.

Early Egyptians, to whom hieroglyphics made sense, wrote on papyrus, leather or parchment with pens or brushes made from reeds. Their ink was usually water, colored with berries or leaves. It tended to fade quickly, as did Egyptian literature.

The Summerians in Mesopotamia, meanwhile, learned to communicate ideas by means of cuneiforms. These were wedge-shaped marks made on a clay tablet with a sharp bone or metal sytlus pen. This made for slow writing, and even slower reading.

In the seventh century a breakthrough took place in the history of letters. Some unsung genuis --perhaps a poultry farmer with a literary bent --discovered that a feather plucked from the wing of a goose made an admirable writing instrument. Finally, in the early 1800's the world's goose population got a reprieve. Pens made of steel appeared on the scene.

When fountain pens first came on the English market in 1835, they lived up to their name by splashing ink in all directions. But they worked.

The first workable ballpoint pen was shown in 1896, but it was not until after World War II that ball points were marketed commercially.

Now a 60-year-old company has completed the cycle by introducing matched pens and pencils with slim wooden barrels. Their beauty and utility would surely have astounded the world's first scribe as he labored in his cave. We wonder if some young genius will top it someday. Nothing stands still.

If You Were The Judge

Mayhem on Coin Machine Taboo

by Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Norton, dispatched by his wife to a laundromat, ran into an immediate conflict. He put a quarter into a change making machine and nothing came out. Consequently, he began to shake, at first gently and then more and more violently.

When that proved fruitless, Norton's rage began to mount and he began to throw rights and lefts at the machine's solar plexus with his clenched fists. And, while the abusive language that accompanied the blows might have made the machine turn red, nothing seemed to make it turn loose the change.

Consequently, totally frustrated, Norton picked up a heavy oil drum that was used in the laundromat as a waste basket and began banging it against the unyielding machine.

Finally, the noise of the battle attracted the attention of two passing policemen who promptly arrested Norton for maliciously injuring personal property.

"If we hadn't stopped him," the officers told the judge, "it would have been a case of homicide. He would have killed that machine."

"It had it coming," was Norton's answer. "It tried to beat me out of a quarter. In trying to get back my money, from that mechanical bandit, I only did what any other victim would have done under the circumstances.

"Beside I didn't cause it any bodily injury, just a slight dent."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict outraged Norton of maliciously injuring personal property?

This is how the judge rules: YES! The judge held, in effect, that even if Norton's motive was to jar loose his money, a person cannot willfully damage a coin machine because it fails to perform as expected.

Based upon a 1967 Oregon Supreme Court Decision.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

As an eagle that stirreth up her nest, that fluttereth over her young, he spread abroad his wings, he took them, he bare them on his pinions. (Deuteronomy 32:11, AV)

PRAYER: Our Father, sustain us when we are faced with the inevitable. May we remind ourselves that trouble is sure to come, but that Thy strength is more than adequate to keep us from falling. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Charles Carroll of Carrollton, Md., who died in 1832 at the age of 95, was the last surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Landmark In Dexter Comes Down

DEXTER--Another old Dexter landmark is coming down, forever lost from the Dexter scene.

It's the big, towering two=story Bert Pruitt home.

It is located at the corner of Mulberry and Miller streets.

But it hasn't always been there.

In its more than a half-century of existence it has moved, but not far.

Old-timers, and not-so-old timers remember it as the "old Dr. Slayton home", and it was originally built right where the Citizens Bank now stands.

But, about 1954, when the Citizens Bank made plans for its present building, the home was moved - a few yards to the west, from the southeast corner of the lot to the, southwest corner of the same block.

"Pug" Buchanan, who has torn down more homes than he can remember, is at work on this one, too.

And it's quite a job, for this home was built to stand the ravages of time, and it withstood them well.

"There's some fine old material in this old house," Buchanan said this week as he worked at the slow process of removing the Dexter landmark.

"Back in those day, they built things to last, and there's some real material in this house," he added.

Such a house, built today, would be costly. The house is trimmed with a liberal supply of "ginger-bread, littled cornices and trim that were the fad, back in those days in fine homes.

The ceilings are high, the windows large. A big front porch greeted the visitors, andmust have been an inviting sight, back in those leisurely days of long ago.

The home was originally built by Dr. Slayton, M.D., a physician here for many years, long since deceased. Later, it became the property of the Pruitt Family and has been known in later years as "the Pruitt home".

But time, and the growing business district, has finally caught up with the home, as it has with other old landmark homes in Dexter and elsewhere.

Reaction Favorable To Road Plans

JEFFERSON CITY, MO. — Legislative leaders were generally favorable in their reaction Wednesday to an ambitious 12-year- highway construction program, to be financed by a 2-cent increase in the gasoline tax and increases in motor vehicle and driver license fees.

Sen. J. F. Patterson (Dem.) of Caruthersville, president pro tem of the Senate, said "This appears to be about the best program we could come up with."

He said he thinks the state could make up the high cost of interest on a $400 million road building bond issue proposed by the commission by accelerating construction and avoiding inflationary costs in the future.

Speaker James D. Godfrey of the Missouri House of the Missouri House of Representatives was not optimistic about chances for voter approval of the bond issue, but said "I feel we have to do something about our roads."

Godfrey said he would support an increase of one or two cents in the gasoline tax. He said the proposed fee increases for motor vehicle registration "caught me by surprise."

The program, which would involve a $400 million bond issue being submitted to voters, would cost $1.4 billion and add about 1,850 miles of divided highways to Missouri's highway system.

In the St. Louis area, the commission said it would be able to extend several major routes not now included in its program.

These include work on portions of Woods Mill Road, the Page Avenue and Brown Road extensions, along with additional work on Highway 40, Interstate 44 and 255.

The Commission reported unanimous approval of the plan, which has been under consideration since Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' toll road amendment went down to defeat by 200,000 votes in the August primary election. The commission named a subcommittee headed by Roger Linsin of St. Louis to determine reaction around the state to a possible increase in the gasoline tax.

Voters of Missouri would be asked to approve a $400 million bond issue, but the Legislature could increase the gasoline tax and highway user fees without a vote of the people.

The commission called its new plan an "intercity- inter-regional system" and said it also would speed up the circumferential and internal highway construction in metropolitan areas.

The overall cost increase in user fees would mean about $22 per year for each car owner, the commission said.

Instead of paying registration fees according to the horsepower rating of vehicles, every car owner would pay a flat $25 per year for each vehicle license.

There would be in addition increases in truck registration fees, in the cost of driver licenses and in fees for new or duplicate titles.

The plan is similar to one the Highway Department proposed to the last regular session of the Missouri Legislature, but it was dropped in favor of the governor's constitutional amendment to allow pledging of gasoline ta tax to retire revenue bonds issued to build toll roads.

But the voters didn't like that idea and the Highway Commission then turned to the plan unveiled Wednesday.

"To meet the immediate needs on our state system will cost more than a billion dollars," the commission said in announcing the plan.

My Lai Testimony Continues

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Ronald L. Haeberle, former Army combat photographer, testified today at the court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., that he saw American GIs fire at 50 to 75 Vietnamese civilians on the south side of the village of My Lai.

Haeberle, 28, who made pictures he said were of Vietnamese civilians slain at My Lai on March 16, 1968, said he saw people trying to get up and run.

"They just fell down," he said.

Calley, 27, is charged with the premeditated murder of 102 Vietnamese civilians.

Haeberle said he saw a woman holding a small child trying to run.

"No, I didn't see anyone," Haeberle replied.

The stocky, dark haired, sideburned former sergeant, who was in Calley's company in the My Lai assault, was asked how many persons were in the group of Vietnamese he saw south of the village.

"Seems like quite a large group of people. I estimate 50-75. I noticed these people squatting in a Vietnamese position. I looked over again and about three people were walking away.

"I heard firing and I looked over to the right and I saw people trying to get up and run. They just fell down."

Daniel asked Haeberle if he could identify the type of firing he heard.

"It was rapid fire, it appeared to be machine-gun fire."

He testified that at first there were five soldiers standing in front of the Vietnamese people.

"Then I saw three of the GIs walking off into the distance. That's when I heard the automatic fire."

Q. Where was the firing coming from?

A. From one of the soldiers.

Q. Did you see any people left standing when the firing was over?

Earlier Roger Alaux Jr., a former artillery lieutenant in the assault on My Lai, testified on cross-examination that he witnessed no enemy fire on the hamlet.

Alaux, now a student at the University of Arizona, also said he called in no artillery fire on the village and that artillery damage he observed lay not in the village itself, but in rice paddies to the south.

Political Media Manager Hails NixonCampaigning

WASHINGTON (AP) — A political media manager says the administration's law and order drive in the midterm elections pursued a formula he deems vital for success: "Create a threat and make your candidate be the savior."

"Brilliantly executed," said Gayle Essary of the campaigning by President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Essary, of Austin, Tex., disputed in a telephone interview Friday the claim of Democratic image-maker Charles Guggenheim that the GOP suffered a voter backlash stirred by Nixon.

"You can't appeal to people on a rational level," Essary asserted.

Nixon and Agnew "were creating a threat to the security of the individual which he could feel and see and experience. Then, they presented their candidates as being the saviors," said Essary.

Essary, who handled two proadministration candidates in losing senatorial campaigns, is associated with the Institute for Motivational Sciences, which, he said, believes that elections are decided on the basis of emotional appeal rather than ideology.

The institute uses a sociological approach based in large part on studies of behavior patterns of rodents and primates, said Essary. Its campaigns ignore the 13 per cent of the population classified as "alphas" and "betas"—those who have achieved leadership positions and those seeking them—and aim instead at the 80 per cent classified as "gammas."

"The gammas are what has been called the great silent majority," Essary said, "and Mr. Agnew is the head gamma."

Essary professed "violent exception" to the view of Guggenheim, who said last week he felt the administration's campaigning stirred a backlash, particularly Nixon's speech at Phoenix, ception" to the view of Guggenheim, who said last week he felt the administration's campaigning stirred a backlash, particularly Nixon's speech at Phoenix, Ariz., which was televised nationwide as the Republicans' Election Eve appeal.

"People thought it was a hohum election," Essary said. "Had the President tried to create a calming influence it wouldn't have turned out the record vote." On balance, he added, this helped the Republicans, although it may campaigns for Sen. Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut, an independent, and Republican John Danforth of Missouri. Although both lost, they polled larger votes than anticipated in contests won by Republican Lowell P. Weicker Jr. and Democratic Sen. Stuart Symington.

Essary said Nixon's lowkeyed, televised speech from Anaheim, Calif., the Friday night before the election was extremely effective.

Although he didn't see the Election Eve telecast, which was marred by a fuzzy picture and scratchy soundtrack, Essary said, "The fact that it didn't work out has nothing to do with the correctness of the strategy."
